VOL. XXII.

DENTIAL TICKET. THAT IS WHAT SENATOR EDMUNDS THINKS.

How the Senator Figures It Out that a Alliance Presidential Ticket Might Hurt the Republican Party.

WASHINGTON, April 6 .- The Star tonight publishes a two-column interview with Senator Edmunds upon the present political situation and outlook.

As between the two great parties the senator does not see any great difference between the situation now and what it has been for several years. But as to the Farmers' Alliance the situation is one of extraordinary interest and importance, because of its possible effect upon the next national election. The reporter asked:

"What dangers to both parties and to the sountry are there in the situation?"

GOOD FOR THE DEMOCRATS. "I don't think there is any danger to the democratic party," the senator replied, with a faint smile, "for in this respect all is fish that comes to its net, or, indeed, goes into the net of the Farmers' Alliance, for in the next presidential election, if the Farmers' Asliance should carry many states, without havinga majority of the whole electoral college, the simple result would be that there would be no election by the people, as it is called, and the present house of representatives having a very large democratic majority of the states as well as members, would elect the democratic candidate in the constitutional and regular way, although he may hvae carried a smaller number of states. As to the danger of the republican party, it is that the farmers may carry in the next presidential election some states that would otherwise vote for the republican candidate, and thus, in effect, if there should be no election by the people, give the election to the democratic candidate by the house of representatives."

WHAT WILL BE THE ISSUE. "What do you think will be the issue of the presidential campaign proper?" "The republicans will doubtless stand on the same ground for justice and equality of rights among citizens of the United States and fair elections and for the protection of American labor and industries that it has maintained hitherto." "Do you think that the silver will be an issue in the next election?" "I don't think it will be an issue between the republican and democratic parties, for I think that the democratic party will hardly wish to make the silver question an issue to the extent of running any siderable risk of separating silver and old as coin money of the country, and tertainly the great body of the republican party, I am sure, will not. Up to the point of safety, I have no doubt the republican party will be in favor of using silver as money as it always has been. What the Farmers' Alliance platform, if it should nominate a candidate for president, will be I am quite unable to say." "How is the feeling of unrest among certain classes to be met?" "I think it is to be met as every other disturbance in society ought to be—by candid consideration, by correct information, just reasoning and the enactment of such laws as may fairly appear to be promotive of general public good. It is upon such general public good. It is upon such the such as th consideration that every government of people must be carried on."

ALREADY A THIRD PARTY. "Is the third party movement likely, and, if so, what might it lead to? Is com at the hottom of it?" "A third party movement," replied the senator, "does now exist in the Farmers' Alliance enterprise. If successful to the extent of having the president and both houses of congress, it would doubtless lead to the enactment of the measures they have already inwhether those measures were good for the farmers, or extremely bad for them, would nanifestly appear. I do not think that communism is at the bottem of the Farmers' Al-movement. The percentage communists in this country of communists in this country is, I believe, at present, almost infinitely small. The great body of laboring people of the country-which, taking all departments of human activity, embraces probably ninety-five one-hundredths of the whole number of grown up people-are altogether too intelligent an nest to think that communism will be of any benefit to them or their families, but they believe that it is destructive of private rights, of personal prosperity and personal happiness, and if carried into practice would effect the maintenance of the vicious and lazy and ignorant out of the toil of intelligent and in-affected by this movement?" "The finances of the country always depend very largely upon the confidence that the peo ple engaged in business and the people having capital have in the administration of its go ernment. If any of the movements of which we have been speaking should appear so formidable as to make unsound legislation at all probable, the finances of the country would be very greatly disturbed, and that, of course, would disturb every branch of labor and business. This everybody perfectly understands.

TRUE TO THE DEMOCRACY.

The Jackson Mississippian Will Not Carr the Democratic Flag at Half-Mast.

JACKSON, Miss., April 6.—[Special.]—Th convened at the request of Edgar S. Wilson and E. L. Martin, of The Mississippian, for the purpose of receiving its resignation as the official journal of the order, has been in session throughout the day. At 11 o'clock p. m the committee, by a vote of 3 to 2, acc the same—Messrs. Casey, Millsaps and Dyer favoring, and Messrs. Beeman and Passmore

The letter of resignation states that the committee was advised, at the time of its acceptance, that democracy should be held paramount to every other consideration, and that it would not support the subtreasury; that the Paper has ever labored for the glory and wellterial advancement and moral elevation of the agricultural classes; that it has always spoken its conscience on public questions, and has never carried its party flag at half mast. Where democracy has needed a champion it has been proud to inscribe its humble name To fight under any other flag means that the black vampire of radicalism shall revel at the fireside and altars of Mississippians. If the committee was out of harmony with these views, the journalship was relinquished, vol-untarily and unsolicitedly as it was tendered.

THE RFFECT OF THE LETTER. Messrs. Beeman and Passmore gave notice of a protest against the acceptance of the res-ignation of the Journal, and the publication of a paper in vindication of their opposition to the sub-treasuries. Mr. Beeman is a member of congress, and Mr. Passmore is an enlightened gentleman, deeply versed in economic ques-

THE REPUBLICANS WIN.

Cincinnati Elects the Entire Republican

CINCINNATI, O., April 6.—[Special.]—No nunicipal election held in this city in years has excited as much interest here and thr out the state as the one today. It was a battle royal between the democrats and the republicans, with no side issues to distract the attention of the voters. Both parties recognized it as the preliminary skirmish before the great battle of this fall, when a governor and United States senator are to be elected. A very large vote was polled for a spring election, and the total will probably exceed 50,000. The contest was conducted in a quiet and orderly manner, and there was not a fight or disturbance in the entire city. Both parties had strong general tickets, but the nominations for council in some of the wards on both tickets were a disgrace to those who made them. At least a dozen of the candidates of both parties for ward officers

THE MAYORALTY CANDIDATES The republican candidate for mayor is the present incumbent, who was elected by a narrow margin two years ago. The democratic candidate for the same position was Colonel Gustave Tafel, a well-known German lawyer and soldier, who has held many important po sitions in the Turners' and other German socie ties. It was thought that on account of his high standing among the Teutonic voters, he would cut down the heavy republican majorities in the German wards. While Tafel was acceptable to the Germans, he incurred the enmity of the democratic Irish by his anti-Catholic utter ances, and it was feared by the democrats and hoped for by the republicans that Mosby would make up among the Irish what he lost among the Germans. THE CONTENDING CLAIMS. When the polls closed the republicans claimed their whole ticket by majorities ranging from 2,000 to 6,000. This city has always been republican in a square contest, but the good work of the democratic legislature in giving this city a charter, and making most of the boards non-partisan, would have a good influence for them. It has been thought from the first that the race between Mosby and Tafel would be close, and the result verifies this opinion. The returns have come in very fast, and both sides claim the election of the mayor, with only a few precincts to hear from. It is probable that Tafel has won by from 500 to 800 majority. The vote between Saylor, democrat, and Smith, republican, for superior judge, is very close, and the same is true as between Ormstead, democrat, and Gregg, republican, for police court judge. The most notable victory of the election is that of Horstman, republican, for corporation counsel, who made his campaign on his opposition to the gas company, which has had Cincinnati at its mercy for the past ten years. He has run far ahead of any one and his majority may reach 7,000. in giving this city a charter, and making most

THE COUNT COMPLETE.

The count of the entire city was completed at 10:30 o'clock, and showed that the whole republican, 2,612; city treasurer, Ziegler, republican, 2,744; corporation counsel, Hurstman, republican, 8,937; magistrate, Tyrell, republican, 3,406. The total vote of the city is a few short of 52,000.

In Other Ohio Cities. PITTSBURG, April 6.—A special from Findlay, Ohio, says: Returns from various cities of northwestern Ohio on the nunicipal elections of today indicate that the democrats have carried the cities of Findlay, Napoleon, Defiance, Wapakonetsa, Lima and Upper Sandusky, while the republicans have been successful at Toledo, Fostoria, Bowling Green, North Baltimore and Bluffton. While the issues were purely local, the result is regarded

Will Get It. TALLAHASSEE, Fla., April 6 .- [Special.]-The Florida legislature convenes at 12 o'clock tomorrow. Nearly all the members have arrived. The alliance caucussed in the court-house at 12 o'clock today, to effect a permanent organization. R. F. Rogers was made permanent chairman and A. S. Mann permaent secretary. They decided not to take any independent action in the organization of the two houses tomorrow, but to submit the names of the officers to the democratic members. In the senatorial race Call and Dunn, the heretofore prominent candidates, have come up with small followings. The alliance will oring in their man later on, and carry him through with a rush. They will take neither

Call nor Dunn.

Democrats in both branches of the legislature, which meets tomorrow, held cancuses to-night for the nomination of officers. There is only one republican in the legislature, and the democratic nomination means election. J. B. Brown, of Key West, was nominated for president of the senate, receiving seventeen out of thirty-one votes cast. He was the candidate of the Call faction, and it is believed that his vote about indicates Call's strength in the

SPRECKELS AND THE TRUST.

They Have Come to an Understanding and There Will Be No Competition PHILADELPHIA, April 6 .- The Record says After a fight of over three years Claus Spreckels and the sugar trust have come to understanding by which there will be no further competition between them. The ne gotiations, which have been going on for some time, now at New York and again at San Francisco, were virtually concluded in this rrancisco, were virtually concluded in this city on Sunday. Theodore Havemeyer, of New York, president of the sugar trust, went through the big refinery of Spreckels on that day and made a careful examination of it. A GOOD CHANCE FOR LAND JOBBING. An Agent of the Treasury Who Will Have

It in His Power to Make an Honest Penny by Giving a Friendly Tip. WASHINGTON, April 6 .- [Special.) -The secretary of the treasury today opened the bids for the location of the site for the new public building to be erected at Rome, Ga. According to the specifications provided in the bid, the site must be 130x100 feet if a corner lot, or 160x100 if an interior lot. KEPT A SECRET.

After opening the bids, Secretary Foster refused to make public the names of the bidders, on the ground that it would precipitate a fierce local fight and cause the department no end of trouble. As the sites for over a hundred buildings are to be located within the next month, secretary is anxious to avoid the annoyance of listening to delegations sent to Washington in the interest of certain sites. He will send a special agent to Rome and the other places, to investigate the bids and act upon the agent's recommendations.

A CHANCE FOR COLLUSION. This plan was not adopted until the advent of the present administration. It has been subjected to well-merited criticism. By giving the people of the city, who are interested in the location, no opportunity of expressing their opinion before the site is located, a great injustice is often done. However, it opens the way for land jobbing, the very thing which the department ought to avoid. In case the agent is at all disposed to turn an honest penny or two, he has everything in his own hands. His recommendation "goes" with the secretary of the treasury. It is easy for him to give the tip about his recommendation to a and syndicate, who can buy up the ground in the vicinity of the new public building be-fore the site is located. The old treasury offifore the site is located. The old treasury officials do not hesitate to condemn this plan of secrecy. They predict that it will result, sooner or later, in a gigantic scandal.

ALL QUIET IN THE COKE REGIONS The Work of Arresting the Ring Leaders of the Riot a Difficult Job.

MT. PLEASANT, Pa., April 6 .- Quiet prevails in the coke regions today. Sheriff Clawson came over from Greensburg this morning and was a very busy man. He has warrants for twenty-five of the rioters, and will probably have warrants for about fifty more before the day is over. These warrants are all placed in the hands of constables and deputies help in arrests. This was a lively day for the different township officers as they were ordered to go ahead with the arrests immediately, so that the leaders of the rioters will be safely jailed before the soldiers leave here. THE LEADERS HIDING OUT.

During the morning six men were arrested, and there was considerable trouble in securing them. It has now become generally known among the strikers that warrants are out for the supposed leaders in the riot, and they are keeping themselves hid as much as possible.
Superintendent Morrissey returned from Greensburg at 11 o'clock today, and immediately went before a squire and swore out warrants for the arrest of fifteen additional Italians. These warrants were placed in the hands of constables, and it is expected that be-fore midnight at least thirty of the rioters will e in jail.

It is probable that evictions of tenants from the company's houses will be commenced very soon, probably this week. At any rate it will be done before the soldiers leave here, and it is believed that this was the cause of the conferbelieved that this was the cause of the conter-ence between the sheriff and the representa-tive of the operators. Several carloads of provisions were received today and distributed among the strikers.

ARRESTING THE DEPUTIES ALSO. Up to night several Morewood rioters have been arrested, and eight deputies who did the shooting. The squire before whom the hearings were held found a precedent somewhere held those charged with riot and carrying concealed weapons in $1,000 bail, while the deputies charged with murder were released on $300. It is said that the wounded strikers, previously reported as having died Saturday, will be privately buried tomorrow.

THE UPRISING IN INDIA. A Force of British Soldiers Led into a Traj and Slaughtered. CALCUTTA, April 6 .- If present indications turn out to be correct, there is very serious trouble brewing in India for the British forces. Emboldened by the success of the Manipuris who recently crushed the Goorkha escort accompanying Chief Commissioner James W. which have occurred among the rival chieftans of Assam, Miranzai, in Kohat territory, a district of the Peshawer division of Punjab have risen in arms and are attacking British troops along the whole length of their lines. It is also known that the Miranzai attack is being pushed so vigorously that strong reinforcements are being hurriedly dispatched to Full details as to this new uprising are naturally withheld by the British authorities

In addition to the Miranzai trouble, tele grams from Rangoon announce that the Hakuchins, lay in ambush in a favorable locality awaiting the passage of a small British olumn on the way from some military post to

When the British force was well inside the trap laid for it, the Hakuchins suddenly opened fire upon the soldiers, instantly killing Lieutenant Forbes and five men and stretching eleven others severely wounded upon the ound. This column, however, returned the force was enabled to retreat from the da ous position into which it had been led thus probably escaped total annihilation.

IS PARNELL A MARRIED MAN?

A Sensational Rumor in the House of London, April 6.—A sensation was caused in the lobby of the house of commons this evening by the rumor that Parnell has been privately married since the O'Shea divorce privately married since the O'Shea divorce proceedings, and not to Mrs. O'Shea. Several Parnellites in the house of commons were in-terviewed on the subject tonight, but they re-fused to say more than that the "mystery" of their leader's inner life, often referred to recently as certain to clear Parnell's character.

Berlin, April 6.—It is announced that the German government has definitely resolved to withdraw the embargo placed upon American pork. It is added, however, that official notice of this withdrawal will probably be delayed for some time, in view of certain negotiations which are still going on between the German government and the government of the United States.

The other persons mentioned escaped, but a number of Italians occupying the upper portion of the building were burned to death with the exception of one of them-Marie Tickio, a girl sixteen years old, who escaped with slight injury by leaping from an upstairs window. She gave the following as the names of those who lost their lives: Victoria Tickio, her uncle; Anna Tickio, her mother; Baptisto Tickio, her father; Rosa and Fannie Tickio, her sisters; John Tickio, her brother, and Joseph Rampa tieni, a boarder.

Gas Works Destroyed.

St. Augustine, Fla., April 6 .- The St. Augustine gas works were burned this morning. The fire was caused by the giving way of a sealed door in a tank holding decomposed water, while it was being charged with illu-minating power from kerosene. Engineer Daniel Fitzpatrick and Fireman. Veese were in the boiler room at the time, but miraculously escaped without injury. The entire plant, except the oil and charging tanks and gas meter and generator, was destroyed. The loss is estimated at $65,000; insurance

The Chapel Burned by an Incendiary. RALEIGH, N. C., April 6.—[Special.]—News was received here today of the burning of the chapel and mess hall at the well known Bingham Military school, in Orange county. The fire is said to have been clearly incendiary, having originated late at night in an unoccupied room. By hard work the other buildings were saved.

The First Work of Augusta's Federal

Augusta, Ga., April 6.— [Special.]—Promptly at 10 o'clock this morning the first session of the United States court, in the western division of the southern district of Georgia, was opened.

Judge Speer delivered a lengthy charge to the jury. He spoke to them on the formation of our national government, and the establishment of federal courts, which date back to the administration of George Washington. He complimented this country upon having the best government of all nations. He charged the jury particularly upon the law prohibiting the illicit distilling of spirituous liquors.

Mr. Ed T. Williams and Mr. Hamilton Phinizy were licensed to practice in court. The cases against John O'Keefe, et al. of Sharon, charged with the conspiracy to prevent by force, intimidation and threats to keep E. L. Duckwith from holding the office of postmaster of Sharon were nolle prossed. This disposition was made at the request of the district attorney, who reported that since February, 1890, Postmaster, Duckwith has been in the peaceful enjoyment of his office and administered his duties without further interference. The district. attorney being satisfied that further interference with the postmaster in the performance of his duties is not probable, and that the local disturbance which led to the prosecution of the parties has been happily ended and the ends of public justice subserved, the judge granted the order dismissing the case. Thus this case, which involved the criminal prosecuti about thirty citizens of Sharon, and which attracted considerable attention at the time the

An Explosion in Augusta

An Explosion in Augusta.

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 6.—[Special.]—A terrific explosion occurred at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the Louis Clinton bottling works, on upper Broad street, in which two employs had a narrow escape. The explosion was caused by the blowing up of an old generating machine, used for making soda water. The building in which it occurred was badly shattered. The flying generator knocked holes in the roof. Fragments of the machine were blown 100 yards over to Ellis street. A S. Hadley and Henry Boldowski, two employes of the works, were in the building when it occurred. The flying fragments struck Boldowski on the arm, painfully but not seriously hurting him. Hadley was injured from the effects of marble dust and sulphur.

But Lavigerie Is Said to Have Spoken at the Suggestion of the Pope, Who De-sired the New Movement Inaugurated.

Rome, April 6 .- Cardinal Lavigerie's toas at Algiers and the events which rapidly fol-lowed that striking utterance are still much disonssed in church circles. Everything plearly indicates the decided drift of the Catholic church toward modern democracy. But those who have enjoyed the confidence of Pope Leo XIII know that he has always considered it of prime importance for the church to free itself from identification with old dynastic parties. Such identification, he has believed, was a great mistake of the church in Latin countries. The elergy, instead of being national, has only been officially representative of the dynastic party and the church has, therefore, suffered with that party as the victim of popular passions and hatreds. Specially in France, the pope has long been desirous of bringing the church into harmony with the popular part. But it was necessary to move slowly so asso wound royalist and aristocratic susceptibilities as little as possible.

THE TIME HAD COME. Preparatons for the new evolution were care-fully made, and when the decisive hour came Cardiffal Lavigerie boidly struck the new note.
Leo XIII, like all men of force, desires to rule directly. He studies everything for himself.
All the most important subjects he reserves for personal consideration and decision. For instance, he is now making a careful and systematic study of the educational question in the United States, for whose democratic institutions he has great admiration.
In all countries the pope has favorite correspondents upon whose advice he places special reliance, and who are charged with carrying out his personal policy. In Encland it is Cardinal Manning; in Belgium, Cardinal Goossens; in the United States, Cardinal Gibbons; in the east, Cardinal Strossmeyer; in Austria, Cardinal Schoenborn; in France, Cardinal Lavigerie. This body of chosen men might be called the general staff of the pope, by means of whom he obtains information and acts.

Thus, on October 9th last, Cardinal Lavigerie arrived in Rome, Leo XII charged him personally with the important religious and political mission of bringing the church in France into harmony with the republic.
There has been and still is much discussion as to whether the cardinal's toast at Algiers received its impulse from the prophetic brain of the pope or sprung unprompted from the ardent soul of Lavigerie himself. But it is learned from absolutely trustworthy sources that the pepe had previously not only expressed a strong desire that the movement should be inaugurated, but had defiantly instructed the primate of Africa to give France the rallying cry.

IT STIERED THEM UP. Cardiffal Lavigerie boldly struck the new note. Leo XIII, like all men of force, desires to rule

PT STIRRED THEM UP. Lavigerie's speech brought a storm of letters to the vatican. All France grew excited. The bishops clamored for advice; the old parties protested; timid people knew not what to think. While the idea of the toast was snggested and approved by the vatican, the form it took was not entirely satisfactory. The form it took was not entirely satisfactory. The ardent primate of Africa went somewhat beyond bounds. He attacked the old parties and taunted them with having been in alliance with Boulangerism. Said Mr. Pion, with regard to this point: "The cardinal has not lived in alliance with the old party. He knows neither their prejudices nor their conditions. Instead of attacking them he ought to coax them." But this vigorous language had its good side. It made all France understand unmistakely that the church intended to break with the past. There was no more equivocal meaning. Leo XIII said with regard to this: "The cardinal has church intended to break with the past. There was no more equivocal meaning. Leo XIII said with regard to this: "The cardinal has done right. It was necessary to strike a great blow in order to get out of this condition of hesitancy and confusion."

The letter of Cardinal Rampolla to the bishop of Tours repeated in a gentler form the advice given in Algiers. The African cardinal had spoken of as commander, as a general. The Roman cardinal spoke as a diplomatist. They complimented each other. Royalists praised the letter. Every one read in it what he liked to find. The witty cardinal said, apropos of many contradictory commentaries: "Cardinal Rampolla's letter is like the speech of the apostles at Pentelike the speech of the apostles at Pentecost. Every one thought he heard his own language." But the blow had struck home.
Protests, to be sure, continued to come from France. Monsignor Freppel made the last but useless attack. The pope overpowered him with civilities, but renewed his order to him with civilities, but renewed his order to cease all opposition and to join the new movement. In furtherance of this cause, Leo XIII composed the letter of Cardinal Richard on the social duty of Catholics. The support of the whole Episcopal body shows that the work has been successful. Evolution has received its final consecration. It will come to pass in spite of the opposition Evolution has received its final consecration. It will come to pass in spite of the opposition and passion of parties. The pope says that the future belongs to the democracy. He has like Caser Conti—like all cultured Italians—great admiration for the American democracy of which he is a close student. He is convinced that the United States will furnish a form for the conclusions of European society as well as ecclesiastic vinced that the United States will furnish a form for the conclusions of European society as well as ecclesiastic questions. He believes in the fertile and irresistible depressions of ideas of the new world in the old world. All cultured Italians have a strongly marked historic sense. Leo XIII possesses this in a very high degree. He knows how to distinguish between the intellectual and social current. He believes sincerely that Europe is marching towards democracy, with republican institutions as the predestined goal. In his character as pontiff, he does not say so; nor can he make, on this conviction, an absolute doctrine, which he could force upon others. But Cardinal Lavigerie's develment on the future triumphs of republics is certainly an echo of the close conversations with which Leo XIII has honored him. The observations which reached the vatican from the courts are proofs that a prophetic voice has been heared and that statesmen are warned.

CHRONICLING THE SITUATION.

GRIFFIN, Ga., April 6 .- [Special.]-The danger line is past, and we still have a showing for a medium fruit crop. At least this is the verdict of some of the experienced growers to-night. They do not all agree as to the damage done, but they are a unit as to some fruit re-maining intact up to the present. All yester-day a threatening cloud hung like an incubus over this section, spilling occasional gusts of snow, increasing fear as the hours past. As darkness came on, the mercury relaxed its grip on the freezing point, and moved up to what was considered a safe point. Later the wind ceased, the clouds cleared away, and frost was apparent to all. This morning revealed the fact that this fear was well grounded, for the earth looked as if it had a coating of snow. When this was discovered, the fruit crop of this section could have been bought for a song.

But not so now. The Constitution visited several of the more prominent orchards this afternoon, and in company with the proprietors made critical

At Mr. J. D. Husted's we found some of the varieties contained two-thirds, others one-half, and some only about one-fourth of a crop. Mr. Husted said he had examined the crop this morning, and estimated a half crop. He found of the tenderer northern trees were greatly damaged, but as a general thing they were standing the cold very well.

Mr. Virgil Hughes thought the crop very materially damaged, though he had not examined it. Later he did so, and found he was wrong in his supposition.

Mr. Henry Galhouse at first hought the crop was entirely killed. Said he: "You may find one occasionally that is in appearance sound now, but it will soon drop off." An examination of his orchard revealed a good many sound peaches still on the trees. average, perhaps, of one in four, and if half of these mature there will be a good crop.

This is the way the matter stands tonight. Good Crops on the Highlands.

COLUMBUS, Ga., April 6.-[Special.]-Your correspondent interviewed today a number of well-posted men in regard to the effects upon the fruit and vegetable crops of the extraor-dinarily cold weather on Saturday and Sunday The consensus of opinion is that thes crops are badly injured, if not ruined. The truck farmers are blue, and say they have saved little. A few weeks ago they were greatly pleased with the outlook. This crop was also considerably advanced, and it is very probable that a new crop will now have to be planted. It is generally conceded that the recent snap has been a disaster. The thermometer was down to thirty degrees this morning. The frost was one of the heaviest

A report comes from Troy, Ala., and the surrounding country that snow fell there for a few minutes Sunday. The crops in his section are also greatly injured
THE CONSTITUTION met Mr. Clarence Levy, who is largely engaged in fruit culture, having a fine farm and nursery on Esquiline hill, five miles from this city, and obtained from him some interesting facts. Mr. Levy said:

"I have no doubt much fruit has been killed, especially in the low lands and valleys. I noticed in Alabama yesterday a large orchard; nearly all the fruit was falling from the trees, and indications are that it will be lost. You will find damage on all orchards that are elevated much lighter than elsewhere. On my hill place I can't see where the crop is injured. There are several other orchards near here, also of high elevation, that are not

"What do you think of the outlook for the

"Well, if the freeze was as general as indications point, the damage has been incalcu lable, as some offthe largest growers are on the low lands, such as around Fort Valley for in-

Mr. Levy said, in explaining why fruit or elevated lands had not been injured, that it was due to the fact that it was more exposed to the wind which prevented heavy frosts. The trees, he said, are always more hardy, and the buds resist a freeze better. He thinks elevated farms will have to be depended on for a great portion of this season's fruit. The gentleman said he did not think the grape crop was much damaged, as the vines are just budding for the first time, and it has occurred where two sets of buds were killed, and still good crops secured.

Bitter Cold Around Boston

Boston, Ga., April 6.—[Special.]—A heavy frost visited this section yesterday and this morning, killing all tender vegetation, and it is feared that the fruit crop is seriously damaged. It will require several days to learn the extent of the damage of the Le Conte pear. The peach crop is a total loss. Great fields of melons are killed, and the seed is very scarce. The Kolb Gem melon seed that were offered on the market here last Saturday for 35 cents per pound, and very little demand at these figures, are quoted today at $1.50 to $2 per pound, and it is feared that enough seed can not be procured to replant with. Some planters will use their melon ground for other than melons, where others will replant at once.
Potatoes are killed to the ground, which will make this crop very late. Some farmers who planted cotton early have to replant, and cotton seed is very scarce. The weather is cold, and another frost is expected tonight.

The Damage Around Bainbridge.

BAINBRIDGE, Ga., April 6 .- [Special.]-A heavy frost fell last night and badly damaged the peach and other fruit crops. The peach crop will be almost a total failure it is feared. The watermelons are all killed, there being several hundred acres in this immediate vicinity. Cotton, tobacco and other crops shared the same fate wherever they were up. The fruit gardens are seriously injured. The Le-

Conte pear crop is almost a total failure on ac count of the previous cold.

Ice Half an Inch Thick.

ALBANY, Ga., April 6.—[Special.]—Those persons who looked forward to Easter Sunday as a sort of dead line at which winter would stop, were sadly disappointed yesterday, which proved one of the coldest days of the winter. and terminated with a killing frost and ice half an inch thick.

The cold has proven ruinous to the fruit crop and to early vegetables. Cotton that was up was killed, and corn also that was planted in flat land, and upland corn has also suffered to some actes.

The Coldest Snap in Years.

The Coldest Snap in Years.

THOMASVILLE, Ga., April 6.—[Special.]—
The cold wave which has just swept the north and west was sensibly felt throughout the southland Saturday and Sunday night. The full extent of the damage cannot be fully de-termined yet, but it is certain that cotton, melous, all the more tender vegetables, such as beans and Irish potatoes, are generally killed. This is the more unfortunate, as clanting seeds are very scarce. The damage, if any, to the fruit, is not yet apparent. Growers are hopeful that the well-advanced foliage furnished sufficient protection to the young fruit. It was the coldest April snap that has visited this section for years, frost being general and the mercury down to 30 degrees. Extends Far Into Florida. SAVANNAH, Ga., April 6.-[Special.]-Heavy frosts fell here the last two nights. Reliable reports received here from various points in southwest Georgia and northern Florida show that the fruit and melon crops and the cotton have been seriously damaged, and in many districts almost entirely destroyed. The bad effects of the cold weather were felt as far south as Leesburg, Fla. The reports show it to be the coldest spell known for this time of the year. The total loss in Georgia and Florida will amount to $200,000, and, coming after such a bad fruit year as last, may ruin many

Macon Fruit Men Are Hopeful Macon, Ga., April 6.—[Special.]—There was considerable frost and a thin coating of ce last night, but experienced growers of fruit say today they do not think very serious dam age has been done to the peaches. Careful investigations have been made in the orchards this morning, and the growers in this immediate station say they apprehend no disastrous effects to the crop if no further cold comes. This is not the pear section. It flour-ishes best in a lower latitude, and any harm that may be done to pears in this section need not be taken as a criterion. Vegetables do not appear to have suffered very much. Tomatoes received more damage than anything else.

Frozen Too Hard to Plow MACHEN, Ga., April 6.—[Special.]—The weather is colder than for a generation past in April. Fruit of all kinds has been killed. The and is frozen too hard to plow this morning.

Opinions Differ in Fort Valley.
FORT VALLEY, Ga., April 6.—[Special.]-Yesterday was an exceedingly cold day, and fruit growers were somewhat excited regarding the effect the extreme cold would have on the peach crop last night. There was a heavy frost, which killed all vegetables that were up. Many horticulturists were seen this morning, and their opinions differ somewhat, but a majority said that late peaches were hurt very little on account of the large and flourishing growth of foilage the trees had grown, but every one admitted that all early peaches were seriously damaged. Many say the effect of the cold has not had time to develop in the peach sufficiently yet to tell how much damage the cold has done, and are freely expressing opinions that there will be a good many peaches if no future disasters befall

Bad for Peaches and Plums

WAYCROSS, Ga., April 6 .- [Special.]-It is thought that nearly the entire peach crop is killed by last night's freeze in this section. Plums were badly injured. Pears received slight injury. Great damage was also done to the gardens and other crops.
Will Have to Replant Corn and Cotton.

LAKE CITY, Fla., April 6 .- [Special.]-The freeze last night was very disastrous to the market gardens in this vicinity. The trucksters report 80 per cent damages, while many farmers will have to replant corn and cot-

The Crop Safe in Baldwin.

MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga., April 6 .- [Special.]-The fruit crop of this section has escaped the freeze, or, at least, that is what the fruit growers say. THE Constitution correspondent interviewed several fruit growers this evening, and they were unanimous in the belief that the crop is not damaged to any great extent. They are of the opinion that the heavy winds of last night protected the germs by blowing the vapor from them before it froze. An examination of a number of trees in different sections today by expert growers developed the fact that fruit in Baldwin is all right, while the crop will be immense.

The Report from Newton COVINGTON, Ga., April 6.-[Special.]-The weather here has been intensely cold for the past twenty-four hours. Last night there was a hard freeze and a heavy frost. The peaches were greatly damaged, and nearly all of them on some trees were entirely killed. The indiplete failure.

The Peaches All Killed. BLUE RIDGE, Ga., April 6.—[Special.]—The peaches in this section are all killed. Yesterday it was snowing and today is milder.

The Cold Wave in Pulaski. HAWKINSVILLE, Ga., April 6 .- [Special.]-The cold wave has played havoc with the fruit of this section, and the little that was left by the cold snap several weeks ago, has been about been finished up within the last twentyfour hours. The thermometer went down to twenty-five degrees last night, and as a result peaches, pears and plums will be very scarce here. Well-informed parties predict that the fruit crop will be cut off at least three-fourths.

Corn and Cotton. MONTICELLO, Ga., April 6 .- [Special.]-The backwardness of this spring has been forcibly attested since last Friday night by a large slice of December weather. Our farmers are gloomy, but not despondent. The bulk of upand corn has been planted and large quantities of guano are being hauled out every day It is feared by some that the late spring and continuous wet weather will diminish the acreage in corn and increase that of cotton, but our farmers as a class declare that they cann live with corn at $1 per bushel and cotton at 7 and 8 cents, so they intend to plant more corn and less cotton.

Americus Bewails Her Fruit. AMERICUS, Ga., April 6.—[Special.]—It looks as if the fruit crop is ruined. Sunday night the thermometer went down to 28, and all vegetation appears to be ruined. Plums, pears, figs and peaches are cut off. All early regetables are killed and the third crop of strawberries shared the same fate. The weather was the coldest Americus has had, and the freeze came just at the wrong time. Those owning orchards and truck farms are gloomy, and say the damage is inestimable.

A WILDCAT KILLED

While Preparing to Spring Upon a Hunter in the Swamp.

BLAKELY, Ga., April 6.—[Special.]—Dr. Will Standifer and Mr. Walt Elder went turkey-hunting down in Dry Creek swamp. While the doctor was sitting in a clump of bushes yelping for turkeys, a large wildcat stealthily crept up within a few yards of him. The cat showed its teeth, its green eyes glittered, and it was preparing for a spring when the doctor, with cool and steady aim, sent a Winchester ball plowing through the feline "varmint." Mr. Elder, hearing the report of the gun was instantly seized with a fit of nervous excitement. He rushed towards the doctor and shouted: "Will, are you shot; what's the matter?" The doctor, leisurely lighting his pipe, sneezed and said "S-cat."

DID EHLEN SUICIDE?

THE GOSSIP ABOUT GADSDEN'S BUSINESS PARTNER.

adsden Was First Caught by the Baring Took the Nigh Cut Out of Trouble.

SAVANNAH, Ga., April 6 .- [Special.]-Many reports are in circulation about the large sums orrowed by Mr. Gadsden from friends. So far as can be learned such loans are secured by good collateral. One loan of $30,000 is said to be amply protected. Last Tuesday Mr. Gadsden paid paid voluntarily a call loan of over $5,000. Now it is surmised that he saw exposure coming, and decided to protect his friends. He had also made up his mind to kill himself before being arrested. He had his pistol cleaned several days before he suicided. Mr. Gadsden's salary was $3,000 a year. He had $50,000 worth of property. WHAT OF EHLEN?

For a long time he had a partnership with the late Joseph Ehlen. They dealt mostly in stocks and bonds. Ehlen was a bull on Central stock, and last fall it went down, and Ehlen was depressed. It will be recalled that Ehlen died suddenly about the 1st of last November. At the time it was hinted that he had committed suicide, and since Gadsden's death the suspicion about Ehlen has been strengthened. This suspicion may be unjust to his memory, but there are many who entertain it. The condition of Ehlen's estate is being examined, but no information is obtain able about it. There are reports that it is wiped out, and there are contradictions. It is also reported that other banks are caught, but these are denied, too. In a day or two, the whole truth will certainly be known.

AN EXAMINATION GOING ON. Joseph Ehlen's brother is here from Germany, looking into the estate, of which Mr. Gadsden was one of the executors. Gadsden's heavy loss came just after the Barings' losses. The stock market went down rapidly, and they were caught badly by the decline. Every one had the greatest confidence in him. He had accommodated many a business man and helped him out of a tight hole when money was scarce, and he will ever be kindly remembered by them.

But It May Get Away With Him in an Unexpected Manner.

Rome, Ga., April 6.-[Special.]-Rome comes forward with another poisoning. Pomp Kennedy, a colored man, is very ill from a poisonous draught. His stomach is swollen to an enormous size, and his neck protrudes with swelling, which is hard. To a reporter the story was told as follows: Yesterday Pomp Kennedy was at Neely Pryor's house, in notorious place of the city known as Beavers Slide. There he drank whisky. Later he became very ill, and vomited. Dr. Higginbotham was called in. Copper poisoning is thought to be the trouble: that Ithe vessels in which the whisky was distilled poisoned the whisky. Nobody is suspicioned and the whisky theory is the only one advanced as yet.

HE WANTS $10,000 DAMAGES.

Mr. L. W. Wall Will Press His Suit Against R. G. Dun & Company.

BUENA VISTA, Ga., April 6 .- [Special.]-Mr. L. W. Wall intends to press his damage suit against Dun & Company for $10,000. It may be remembered that a short time ago there appeared in Dun's commercial report "L W. Wall, colored," giving, of course, the character of his business and commercial rating.

Mr. Wall claims that this report has damaged his reputation, business and credit, and on that account will ask for the amount of damages above stated.

He has employed Persons & Willis, of Talbotton, to press his suit, and no doubt the damages will be forthcoming, as he appears to have a good case.

Mr. Wall is impressed with the idea that some enemy in Buena Vista thus reported him in order to injure his business, and if this be true, all the facts in the case will be brought to light when the suit is instituted. No doubt Dun & Company's Commercial Agency will have to pay dearly for their re port in this case.

N INJURED HUSBAND

her Incident Thrown Into the McKee Trial-Three Jurors Sick, Causing an Adjournment Until Wednesday.

ROME, Ga., April 6.—[Special.]—It has sked like a sensation was in the air. People expected some new and strange denents this morning.

The demand for an apology made by the sound of Mrs. Dietz upon Colonel George 77, counsel for the defense, on account of his ticism upon Mrs. Dietz's testimony, created great deal of excitement.

WHAT COLONEL FRY SAID Colonel Fry, in his argument of Sacurda; ening, spoke of Mrs. Dietz's demeanor as a tness, and quoted some of the statements ade about her during the developments of case.

Colonel Fry called attention to the great nglish case of Miss Eveline O'Neill where a aid of Mrs. Fanshaw, the poisoned woman, ssed the deed that her sole provocation ethe murder was that Mrs. Fanshaw had olded her. Colonel Fry said that Mrs. Dietz had ester cause for vengeance upon Mrs. McKee an instance in case read. That Mrs. McKee at told Mrs. Dietz why she did not want her ale daughter to associate with her.

Colonel Fry spoke of Mrs. Dietz on the imess stand, of her jeweled ungloved hand, made some reference to the motion of baldancers, etc.

COLONEL FRY TALKS. Colonel Fry, when interviewed by THE Connt to the home of his client. About 8 clock p. m. he learned that Mr. Dietz was eking for him, and had a note, and that a ste was handed him which he did not read.

twas remarked that the note might be unched in insulting language, as Mr. Dietz as mad and he threw it in the fire without bening it.

"Colonel Fry, the people look on you as a ching man. What do you propose to do?" ked The Constitution's representative.

"Nothing in the world, sir. I have come with here to fight probably. I have come own here to fight nobody. I have come own here to run from no one. I see nothing d know of nothing to which exception could taken. There must be some misapprehen-on on the part of others. I learned afterards that the note of Dietz contained no in ding language. I have done nothing in the tter and see nothing to do as to what was

IN DEFENSE OF HIS WIFE. This morning about 8:20 o'clock Mr. Dietz as seen standing in front of the courthouse rd. He looked impatient. Mr. Dietz said the reporter that he had looked for Colonel ry at the hotel and the house, and had left a ste for him; that he had taken exception to e remarks of Colonel Fry in reference to his ife, and had demanded a public apology in en court, or Colonel Fry must answer

Mr. Dietz said

"I meant what I wrote." The ant what I wrote."
The reporter watched for Colonel Fry to take his appearance. When court was called a order Mr. Dietz and Mr. Waters, the other of Mrs. Dietz, were in the courtroom. blonel Fry entered and took his seat. Judge faddox called the court to order, and the wall listened to see if Colonel Fry world. well listened to see if Colonel Fry would ke an apology. Those who knew him said would not.

J. B. S. Holmes stated to Judge Mad-hat Mr. W. S. Gibbons, one of the jurors the McKee case, was sick with fever and reatened with pneumonia and could not be ent; that Mr. J. W. Brown, another juror ad a high fever yesterday and was very weak. And still there was another juror sick, as the Constitution afterwards learned. Judge Maddox then announced that he saw oother direction to give the case, but to post-one it until Wednesday. THEY DID NOT MEET.

hen the crowd looked for Colonel Fry beitz to meet. The counsel of Mrs. McKee eld a consultation. Then Colonel Fry got is hat and walked out of the back door, newsaper reporters keeping well up. But Mr. lietz was in the front yard of the courthouse, at there was no meeting. Colonel Fry got ha carriage and rode around the courthouse, and then got out and went down in the city.

WILL WAIT UNTIL WEDNESDAY. Mr. Deitz was seen by THE CONSTITUTION ad asked for a copy of the letter sent to colonel Fry. He replied:

"I have given it to no one, nor will I. I ill wait until Wednesday morning and see that Colonel Fry will do." So this is the standing at present. Wednes-by morning will tell the tale.

THE SUBSTANCE OF THE LETTER. The letter sent to Colonel Fry was destroyed,

The letter sent to Colonel Fry was destroyed, at in substance was a complaint of the count's argument as to the reflection upon the haracter and demeanor of Mrs. Dietz, and olitely asking for a public apology or he would have to answer for it.

The Constitution sought Mr. McKee. He aid he was present when the note was handed colonel Fry. The note was sealed. Colonel by did not open it, but tossed it into the fire. It. McKee thought Colonel Fry was a ourageous man, and that he would not apologica, as there might be a misapprehension in ize, as there might be a misapprehension in be minds of those demanding an apology. NO NEW DEVELOPMENTS.

There has been no new developments in the

There has been no new developments in the Dietz-Fry matter. Various reports are being irculated, and the town talk is about this ffair. Colonel Fry is a magnificent speciman f manhood, large and strong. Dietz is a plendidly muscled young man, but not so tree as Colonel Fry. Mr. Jim Waters, of hattanooga, the brother of Mrs. Dietz, said of a reporter that if Colonel Fry did not react the words on Wednesday morning constrning his sister, he would be made to. The faters are esteemed plucky men. There eming his sister, he would be made to. The Vaters are esteemed plucky men. There are various reports and opinions about the re-arks made by Colonel Fry, some deeming they were in the privilege given a lawyer by the laws of Georgia, that the judge allowed them, and Colonel Fry did not travel beyond is privilege. On the other hand there are the who think the remarks were too severe. me who think the remarks to re-fractly what was said nobody seems to re-nember. Colonel Fry spoke all Saturday ternoon and no stenographer took down his business, having been connected with the sheriff's office for many years, and is well qualified to fill the responsible position. An Unfortunate Girl.—Missourl Smith, ayoung white girl about fifteen years of age, was found wandering in the fields in the vicinity of the Atlanta University last night by a citizen passing that way. The girl was unable to give any account of herself and was apparently of unsound mina. She was brought to the station house by the citizen, and today she will be returned to her people, if they can be 'ound, or taken before the ordinary on a writ of luancy.

Atlanta Fishermen.—The Jacksonville, Fla., Times-Union comments on the fact that Atlanta has been a good patron of Florida pleasure resorts for the past year, and then branches off on the

has been a good patron of Florida pleasure resorts for the past year, and then branches off on the subject of fishermen as follows:

Not long ago Judge George Hillyer, ex-mayor of the city, Captain R. A. Hemphill, the real bustness manager of The Constitution, and Mr. Frank E. Block, the great cracker and candy manufacturer, went down to Homesassa for a fish, and their return home with glowing accounts of the charms of the place created great enthusiasm in the ranks of the members.

And this is how Jacksonville was invaded by a baker's dozen of bronzed fishermen homeward bound to Atlanta, from a week's fish down at Homosassa, the sportsman's paradise.

The party represented brain, beauty and boodle in large quantities. Mr. J. H. Porter is president of the Merchants' bank, Colonel T. B. Neal is president of the Neal Banking Company; Captain W. L. Peel, son-in-law of General Phil Cook, is vice president of the Maddox, Rucker & Co. banking house; Colonel T. L. Langston is one of the biggest commission merchants in the state, Mr. A. W. Smith, is one of the brainiest young lawyers in the south; Messrs. C. S. Arnall, E. H. Barnes, George S. Loundes and O. F. Simpson are all citizens of means and influence.

We are thus particular to note the above facts because it means much to Florida in the future.

An Atlanta Runaway.—Master Harry Mooney, of Atlanta, ran away from home a few days ago and got as far as Macon. He happened to fall into good hands there, and was sent home Sunday. He left here, he says, in company with two young men, and beat his way by hiding under a seat. His mother is a dressmaker, Mrs. Mollie Mooney, living here.

Dan Hall Confident .- A telegram from Mr. Dan Hall, in Henderson, N. C., received by friends here yesterday, states that he is confident of coming out all right. Every demand for exami-nation of the books of Burgwyn's bank has been refused, he says.

A Freight Wreck .- A freight wreck on the East Tennessee road at the six-mile post yesterday morning about 30'clock, played havoc with sched-ules on both the East Tennessee and Western and Atlantic as well as the Georgia Pacific. Six cars were wrecked, and both East Tennesssee and Western and Atlantic tracks were blockaded until 10 o'clock yesterday morning. A broken axle was the cause of the wreck.

A Little Girl's Death.—A telegram was received by Undertaker Frank X. Bliley yesterday announcing that the body of little Gracie Fay, the six-year-old daughter of Mrs. Paul Fay, was on its way to Atlanta for burial. Her death occurred in New York Saturday night. She was a bright little girl, and her loss is a sad blow to her devoted mother, who is well known in this city.

A Literary Society.—The Alciphronian Literary and Debating Society of the Boys' High school tendered yesterday to Mayor Hemphill and the general council an invitation to attend its seventeenth anniversary meeting. The invitation committee consists of Eugene Thomas, W. Markham and Preston Daniel.

The expresses will consist of a daylor of the content The exercises will consist of a debate, declama ns and readings by members of the society, and l be held in the Browning hall of the Girls' Reception Friday Night.—On Friday night the Northern Society will hold a reception at their rooms in the old capitol building. An excellent programme of music and recitations will be given. The reception is tendered especially to visitors and strangers from northern states in the city.

Mrs. Charles A. Barrett.—The many friends of Mrs. Barrett, who has, for several weeks, been seriously ill at her home, 142 Mangum street, will be pleased to learn that she is now convalescing, and her recovery is assured.

Sent to Jail.—Andrew Nolan, the ten-year-old white boy who stole the Atlanta National bank checks out of the postoffice, was sent to jail yesterday afternoon. A conference between the detectives and the postoffice inspector was held in the chief's office yesterday, and it was decided that Nolan should be sent to a reformatory. His mother fully agrees with the officers. So the boy will be sent to some reformatory institution.

COL. MASSEY'S WIFE

HAS MYSTERIOUSLY DISAPPEARED FROM BRUNSWICK.

Desperate Over Her Husband's Death, She Threatened Suicide-Where She Is No One Knows.

BRUNSWICK, Ga., April 6 .- [Special.]-Did Mrs. Massey drown herself, or did she work a scheme to fly to parts unknown, are the two questions that are puzzling Brunswick to-night. Anyhow, Mrs. Massey, wife of the late Colonel R. A. Massey, is very mysteriously missing. Brunswick was thrown into excitement tonight when it was announced that a letter had been received from Mrs. Massey, stating that she intended committing suicide AT HEE HUSBAND'S BURIAL. Mrs. Massey came here one year ago with her busband from Douglasville. Colonel Massey died here last March of consumption. He was a son of Dr. R. J. Massey, formerly of St. Simon's island. Last month Mrs. Massey went to Douglasville to the burial of her hus band. She returned to Brunswick two weeks ago, secured rooms at the home of Mrs. Norman McDonald. She was in ill health when she returned here. Last Thursday night she went to St. Simon's, saying she intended visiting old friends. She carried but a few garments with her, leaving her trunk at Mrs. McDonald's. Friday morning she went to St. Simon's on the steamer Egmont, stopping at the Ocean View hotel.

THE THREAT OF SUICIDE.

Nothing was heard from her until tonight, when the boat from the island brought the following letter from her, addressed to Mr. McDonald:

Enclosed I send $5. Please pay Mr. Paddock for my meals, and express my trunk. Since seeing Mr. Massey die with consumption, I cannot wait, and will end my miserable life in the waters. Send my trunk to my sister, Miss Lily McIntosh, at Douglasville, Ga. I thank you all for your kind-

This was all. Mr. and Mrs. McDonald are very much excited. D. W. Krauss, a young lawyer, left here tonight for St. Simon's to investigate matters at the island. Mr. Krauss has not returned at 12 o'clock tonight.

ON OTHER CLUES. Since he left your correspondent has been at work investigating in Brunswick. It is learned from Captain Smith, of the Egmont, that a woman who was said to have been Mrs. Massey, returned to Brunswick on his steamer late Saturday night, and left on the train for Albany. Some say Mrs. Massey's mind was wandering, and she may be wandering with it. She was devoted to her husband, and ose who know her, say she has not been right since her husband's death. HER WIDE RELATIONSHIP

She has an elegant home in Douglasville left her by her husband. She has two children-one boy by her first husband, Mr. Mc-Elreath, who is with her sister; another by her last husband, who is with her fatherin-law's family in Atlanta. Miss Kate Massey, popular teacher in the Atlanta public schools, ts her sister-in-law, while Dr. Massey, of Aus tell, editor of The Advertiser, is her brother in-law. It is the general opinion of her many friends there that she has ended her life ere this. Messages are being sent to all points, but nothing has been heard from her.

Mrs. Massey is a daughter-in-law of Mr. B. J. Massey, residing at No. 218 Crew street, this city

A call at the residence late last night developed that her relatives here know nothing about her whereabouts.

She left for Brunswick from Douglasville about three weeks ago to spend some time for the benefit of her health, which was very bad. A letter was received by Mr. Massey from her about a week ago, since when nothing has been heard.

They were astonished to hear of her mysterious disappearance and are quite anxious about her. Mrs. Massey was formerly Mrs. McElreath, her maiden name being McIntosh Her parents resided at Powder springs.

ATLANTA, GA., APRIL 7, 1891.

A Gratifying Development.

THE CONSTITUTION begins this morning to do what no other paper in the southern states does, and indeed what is done nowhere outside of the metropolitan cities of the country, that is, to turn from its presses every morning for its readers a bright, crisp, ten-page paper, brimful of the news and gossip of the world.

We have been forced to do this by the hearty manner in which the reduction in the price of the paper to $6 a year for the daily, and $8 a year for the daily and Sunday, has been received. With this came a phenomenal increase in our subscription lists, and naturally a heavy increase in advertising was the immediate

Eight pages no longer suffice to do the work THE CONSTITUTION had outlined for itself. Ten may do it for a while, but it is more than probable that within a few months it will be as necessary to spread to twelve pages as it has been to extend from eight to ten.

The wonderful growth THE CONSTITU-TION'S subscription lists is without a precedent in the history of southern journalism. With a daily circulation more than twice as large as that of any other paper outside of Atlanta, in Georgia, and almost double that of any other newspaper published in Atlanta, it is but natural that we should respond to the gratifying enthusiasm of our readers by extending our service commensurate with the steady development of the cordial patronage with which our efforts in the past have been encouraged.

With an average daily circulation of 20,000, with the weekly going into 156,-000 homes, and with the people satisfied at the efforts of THE CONSTITUTION to maintain its standard as "the leading southern newspaper" we feel encouraged to make ventures never yet undertaken in the journalistic field of the south, and if during the current year, our readers are surprised with a further increase in the size of the paper from ten to twelve it as a matter of fact.

We may be pardoned for expressing the belief that THE CONSTITUTION'S readers have little of which to complain. With from twenty-four to thirty-six pages every Sunday, eight pages Monday, and ten pages every other day of the week, they certainly have ample opportunity to keep up with the developments of the world, of both news and general interest, and all for with the recent correspondence between this country and Italy. One is the promise of indemnity by Mr. Blaine to the relatives of such Italian subjects as may have been wronged by a violation of treaty rights, and the other is the demand of Italy, backed up by such periodicals as The London Spectator, that this country at once proceed to change its constitution so as to enable the federa government to bring the executioners of the Mafia assassins to a speedy trial.

The promise of indemnity by Mr. Blaine doesn't amount to a row of pins, and he never intended that it should. It is a clear and deliberate evasion of the facts, and it is unworthy of the secretary of state. This promise with an "if" was intended to be a great stroke of diplomatic policy, and we believe it is so regarded by those who are in the habit of chuckling over evasions and double-dealing.

Mr. Blaine, as the representative of the American government, should have told the Italian authorities the plain, simple truth about the matter. He should have recited for their edification that clause of the treaty which declares that Italian subjects in this country shall receive the same protection that is accorded to citizens of the United States, and shall enjoy the same rights. Mr. Blaine should have imparted Rudini the important information that the federal government does not undertake to protect its own citizens from mob vioience, and does not indemnify the relative those who may chance to become the rictips of such violence. Mr. Blaine should the very least, he should have followed the example of Webster in saying that the claims for indemnity would be laid before

As to the further contention of Italy that this country should change its constitution in order the more promptly to bring the executioners of the Mafia assassins to justice, there seems to be no doubt that Mr. Blaine has missed a rare opportunity for exhibiting that fine American spirit which his friends and admirers credit him with possessing. It is an opportunity that does not present itself often, and Mr. Blaine should have taken advantage of it.

When our treaty with Italy was ratified it is fair to presume that the Italians knew the nature of the government with which they were dealing. They knew, or ought to have known, that they were dealing with a republic in which the states have an autonomy of their own, and with which the federal government is not permitted to interfere. The Italian contention has a brassiness about it that would not be easy to duplicate outside of Great Britain. Foolish and absurd as it is, it has the practical endorsement of a prominent organ of British opinion. The mildest suggestion of the American spirit with which Mr. Blaine is said to be surcharged, would, it seems to us, have been in the direction of reading the little maccaroni monarchy a luminous lesson in constitutional democratic government. At the very least it would have been an easy matter for the American secretary of state to have in formed Rudini that it would be as sensible for the United States to demand a change in Italy from a constitutional monarchy to a constitutional republic as to ask the people of this country to make the federal government paramount in state matters in order to avenge the wholesome and justifiable execution of the Mafia assassins.

Mr. Blaine's experiment in diplomacy is an amusing fizzle. It would have been a great deal better for him and for the American name if he had given his widely advertised American spirit full swing.

A Well-Merited Rebuke.

The Athens Banner, in commenting on childish and ill-natured editorial of The Charleston News and Courier on the impropriety of inviting Governor Hill to deliver the address at the unveiling of the Grady monument, administers a well-merited rebake to a few newspapers which, always barking at Mr. Grady's heels while he lived. are apparently interesting themselves most in matters pertaining to his memory.

Fortunately there are but few such newspapers, and the public has long since spotted

The Banner, in commenting on the invitation of the Grady Monument Association to Governor Hill, and in referring to the editorial of The News and Courier, says:

Then it would be seen that there is no gross im-propriety after all in the invitation to Governor Hill. He is a democrat. He is one of the few northerners whose career has always been most friendly to the south.

He loved Henry Grady and was among the first to telegraph profound sympathy to the bereaved family when all Georgia was bowed in sorrow at his death. He used to love to hear Grady speak of the south, and its blue skies and sunny fields, and it was at Grady's own invitation that Govern or Hill came to the south to speak to thousands of Georgians several years ago at the Piedmont exposition, about living issues of the day.

The Banner is no Hill paper anymore than it is a to use any sentiment that clusters about the mem-ory of one so dear as Henry Grady to stir up divis-Courier of the last speech of Henry W. The Government's Black List.

THE CONSTITUTION was the first paper in the country that called attention to the federal statute disqualifying ex-confederates, and prohibiting them from holding commis sions in the United States army.

The act in question is even more sweeping in its terms than our allusion to it the other day indicated. Section 128 of the Revised Statutes, still in force, reads as follows: "No person who has served in any capacity in the military, naval or civil service of the so-called confederate states, or of either of the states in insurrection during the late rebellion, shall be appointed to any position in the army of the United States.' The act has never been repealed or amended, and in the event of a foreign war ex-confederates, if they volunteer or are drafted, must make up their minds to serve as privates under northern officers.

But the statute is so old that it is forgotten by almost everybody, including the authorities at Washington. A few days ago, when there was some talk of a war with Italy, many ex-confederates tendered their services to the war and naval departments. Perhaps when they find that they are black-listed by Uncle Sam they will not be so anxious to go

Our northern contemporaries are either ignorant of this law, or else they are ashamed of it.

Cotton Consumption and Movement The New York Chronicle brings its review of the consumption and movement of the cotton crop down to April 1st.

The movement of the crop has continued quite free during the month of March, the mount brought into sight through the overland movement and the port and interior towns movement having aggregated 433,796 bales, bringing the total of the current crop already visible up to 7,815,920 bales, or over 900,000 bales greater than on the same date in 1889-90, and fully 500,000 bales more than the whole crop of last season. North ern spinners have taken cotton a little more freely in March, their takings for the season to date showing an increase over 1889-90 of Shipments of cotton overland during the month have been greater than during the corresponding month of 1890, the gross movement reaching 100,140 bales, against 88,258 bales, but compared with 1889 there is a considerable falling off, the movement for March of that year being 135,736 bales. The season's total, however, continu excess of former years, although the difference is not great. As in February, the month's net is less than in either of the two preceding years, but the decline from last year is not heavy-5,769 bales. The decrease from March of 1889, however, is over 30,000 bales. For the seven months the net total exceeds that of a year ago by 32,646 bales, and the gain, contrasted with 1888-89.

indicated, has been very heavy in March. In fact, net receipts are more than 100 per cent greater than for the corresponding month of 1890, and, furthermore, show ar increase over the March receipts for any previous years in our record, only excepting 1881 and 1883. It will be remembered that at the close of February New Orleans exhibited a deficiency in receipts compared with last year of nearly 70,000 bales; that deficiency has now disappeared, and is replaced by a gain of 10,830 bales. All the other important ports have handled more cotton than a year ago, Norfolk in particular being conspicuous for its heavy increase. The aggregate for the seven months is of course much ahead of the total for the like period of 1889-90, or any other season. The exports to foreign ports continue to gain on the previous season, although the difference in March is not so marked as in February. Still 438,940 bales have been shipped, against 412,160 bales in 1890. In 1889 the xports were 537,873 bales. For the season to April 1st the aggregate exceeds that of 1889-90 by 366,178 bales.

The amount of cotton marketed since September 1st in 1890-91 is thus seen to be 736,380 bales more than in 1889-90, and 1.082.759 bales more than in 1888-89. Northern spinners had up to April 1st taken 1.671.671 bales, an increase over the corresponding period of 1889-90 of 51,952 bales. and a gain over the same time of 1888-89 of 51.641 bales.

The South and Her Veterans. Georgia's confederate pension system, under which disabled veterans receive from $2 to $25 per month, according to the disability, is highly creditable to our state; but it should accept and maintain the home near this city, in order to complete the good work.

It will be of interest to review the situation in other southern states.

Virginia led inthe movement and estab lished a confederate home at Richmond, forthe support of which the state expends $10,000 a year. Pensions to the amount of $5,000 annually are also paid.

Alabama has no home, but pays $125,000 vear in pensions. Arkansas has a home at Little Rock, built by private subscription, supported by state aid. Florida has no home, but pays $30,000 a year to disabled confederates who have resided in the state fifteen years. Mississippi is without a home, but has made liberal provision for her indigent and disabled confederates.

Missouri pays no pensions, but a movement is on foot to raise $100,000 to endow a home without state aid. Maryland has a $40,000 home near Baltimore, aided by the state to the extent of $10,000 annually. Louisiana has a home near New Orleans, and the state grants it $10,000 a year.

North Carolina not only pays pensions but has appropriated $41,000 for a home. South Carolina pays about $50,000 in pensions, but has no home. Texas has a home established by sub scription. It costs $3,500 a year, and state aid is expected shortly. Tennessee has established a home at the old home of Andrew Jackson, the Hermitage, the state donating 475 acres of land and giving $10,000 for improvements in 1889. The legislature which recently adjourned appropriated $25,000 for a building and $5,000 a year for its support, and in ad dition $60,000, or so much thereof as may be necessary for expenditure annually in pensions, which range from $2.50 to $25 per month. It is thought that $25,000 per year will cover the pension list.

Of all the southern states Kentucky alone has made no provision for her ex-confederates.

No veterans were ever worthier of aid than the men who wore the gray. 600,000 strong, they for four years defended the south against the well-equipped armies of the United States, numbering 2,859,000 men, and yielded only to these overwhelming odds of nearly five to one.

The south cannot do too much for heroes who have made such a record. Fortunately, Georgia will not have to go to the expen of building a home. It is already built, and is tendered by private citizens as a gift to the state. It will not cost much to keep it up, and in a few years the property greatly enhanced in value will more than repay what the state expends on it. Such a gift, under the circumstances, cannot be declined

The State University.

THE CONSTITUTION is glad to note a general revival of interest in higher education in the state-an interest that centers in the University of Georgia and will eventually add to its strength and usefulness.

This interest is fully set forth in a number of interviews with prominent men, published in The Athens Banner of Sunday. These interviews show that every loval and public-spirited citizen in the state has the work of the university at heart.

But more than this, they show that the interests of the university and the common schools are one, and that they must be built up together. This is the basis upon which the friends of higher education are now working; they have caught the right idea and they are giving it practical illustration and application.

The Hon. Peter W. Meldrim puts the case clearly when he says that the people of Georgia are aware that money from the state to the common schools is not all that is necessary to build up the system, and when he says: "We must send more boys to the university. We must enlarge the university. We must give some money to the common schools by giving it to those who go from the common schools to the university. When they have completed their education at the college, they will go back and teach with well-directed aim a higher school than the one they left before going to college, and here's the whole secret of higher education in a nut shell. The university is a part of the common schools. The com schools are a part of the university." That is a good basis to begin on; that is the idea the people should catch and foster. Mr. Meldrim further says that it is his purpose to get every town and village, and every rural neighborhood, interested in the future of the university as the backbone of th common school system. To this work he is mitted heart and soul, and we wish him the greatest measure of success in it. The sooner this idea obtains—that the inerests of the common schools are insepara ble from the State University—the better it will be for education. Georgia will have a will be for edu

It must be admitted that the outlook is rather gloomy.

The peach, pear and early vegetable crops appear to be seriously damaged, and the consequent loss to our people may run up to many thousands of dollars.

Still, these misfortunes are frequently overestimated at first, and such may be the case in the present instance. The freeze may be followed by favorable weather, and the genial sunshine may yet save the imperiled fruit and vegetable crops. We are not willing to admit that the outlook is hopeless. It will be some days before we can measure the extent of the injury caused by the recent blizzard.

Endorsed by the Bar. It is believed that no one American lawver has done more to secure the establishment of an intermediate appellate federal court than Hon. Walter B. Hill, of Macon.

In view of this fact, and on account of his high professional character, his extensive legal attainments and his great ability, the bar of Macon and the state at large, as well as many distinguished lawyers residing in other states, will urge the appointment of Mr. Hill to the judgeship of the fifth judicial circuit of the United States.

We believe that the best interests of the bar and the litigants of this circuit would be satisfactorily secured by this appointment. Under the act the court will sit "at New Orleans and such other places as the court One may from time to time designate." end of the circuit is thus provided for, but lawyers and litigants at this end may be put to considerable inconvenience if the cour should fail to sit in this state. With Mr. Hill on the bench, this end of the circuit would be sure of the recognition that it is entitled to by reason of its volume of court business.

Mr. Hill's addresses before the American Bar Association have made him so favorably known that the bar of the entire country would hail his appointment with pleasure.

GENERAL GEORGIA GOSSIP.

The Rome Tribune told a story recently of a man who had determined to kill a friend for no cause whatever, and for that purpose sent for the friend to dine with him, having a pistol con-cealed under the table cloth. The Early County News caps this with a story of a lab worked for a citizen of that county for years, and recently confessed that he had lured his employer to the woods on several occasions for the express purpose of killing him. THE ACTION OF THE COMMISSION.

ERS CREATES COMMENT. The Other Side of the Question Stated-A Suggestion About the Glass Houses-The People the Commissioners Are After.

There are two sides to every story.

It is so with the proposition of the board of county commissioners to have a comparison county commissioners to have a comparison made between the tax books of the state and county tax office and the books of the city tax

As THE CONSTITUTION has stated, this matter was agitated at a meeting of the county commissioners and the subject was discussed. The board believed that many citizens of Atlanta were not doing the square thing in making their tax returns to the state and county, and for that reason the investigation was proposed.

As every property owner knows he is allowed to return his property for state and county taxation upon his own valuation, while for city taxation the valuation is fixed by the board of assessors.

tures have been developed by the action of the board of county commissioners.

For instance there is an old adage about People who live in glass houses." The board of county commissioners is composed of Messrs. Collins, Wilson, Garrett, Hunnicutt and Nelms.

Yesterday a Constitution reporter paid a visit to the city tax assessor's office and ran over the records for 1890. Commissioner Wilson's name was singled out. His city property, real and personal, was assessed at $11,075. These figures were compared with other figures taken from the books of the state and county collector for the same year. There the commissioner was credited with only $4,000 worth of city real estate and $1,000 personal property, against $8,500 and $2,575 respectively on the city books.

Commissioner Hunnicutt was next spotted. The city books showed that he had paid taxes on $102,050 real and personal property inside the city limits in 1890. The books across the street showed that he had returned the same property at $91,475. Difference between Commissioner Hunnicutt's valuation and the valuation of the city assessors, $10,575.

Then Commissioner Collins. The city books showed that his Atlanta real estate was taxed on a valuation of $17,400, against $13,000 at state county receiver. This city assessment old capitol building, and none of the property outside of the city owned by the commissioners is included in any of these tigures.

Commissioner Garrett was the last comparison. He was found to be taxed on $16,300 by the city assessors, and the state and county books showed returns of city property to the valuation of $15,300. The $1,000 difference was between the valuation of Mr. Garrett's city real estate and the valuation of the same by the assessors.

Fulton and the Other Counties. But there is still another view to take of the

It is the position that it is not just that tax valuations be equal between the city and state and county.

the taxes of the state," said a well-known citizen yesterday, when the action of the county commissioners was broached. "Further than this, I am convinced, after investigating the situation, that Fulton county pays more taxes in proportion to the actual value of her property than any other county in the state. This is largely due to the influence of the city board of assessor.

"In almort all the other counties of the state-I may say all of them-the property is returned for state and county taxation on the appraisement of the owners, at anywhere from one-fifth to one-half of its value. Now this being so, and it is easily substantiated by the facts, it is plain that it would be unjust to the property owners of Fulton county to com pel them to return their property to the state at its full for even two-thirds of its market

"I know of farms in other counties which could not be bought for $5,000 returned at

"The only way to remedy the edl, or rather scrimination, would be by state board of assessors.

"City property in Atlanta," he continued, "is assessed too high in many instances—in fact as a rule. But we car better afford to stand this, because we get a direct benefit from our taxes, whereas a great deal of what we pay into the state and county office goes outside to make up the deficit in other counties. where property is returned at an average of perhaps half its value.

"At a superficial glance it might appear that there is some justice in the position that the tax valuation for city and state and county purposes should be equal; but when the sub-ject is studied, and the discrimination against cities governed by boards of assessment is made manifest, it is clearly an erroneous

"It is the small taxpayer, the man who owns a little home and has to pay tax upon it upon whom our system of taxation is hard and who suffers most," was the comment of a who suffers most," was the comment of a county official in discussing this question yesterday. "If the big taxpayers, those whose property is income-producing, returned their holdings as high in proportion as the small homelowners returned their homes, there would be no objection whatever. It is that which the commissioners are trying to bring about. It may not be right to force all this property up to the figures fixed by the city sessors, but there are many instances of property being returned so far below its actual value as to be ludicrous. Men of the hightest standing and strictest integrity will swear to returns that bear no kinship to truth. It is these men the commissioners are after-and ought to get."

MARIETTA AND NORTH GEORGIA. Validity of the Central Trust Company's

Bonds to Be Tested. The legal complications in the case of the Central Trust Company against the Marietta and North Georgia Railway Company, receiver ship, received a large addition yesterday morning in the shape of a petition filed by C. D. Phillips and B. F. and C. A. Abbott as attor neys for C. D. Phillips, N. I. Eaves, Henry ells and R. F. Maddox, praying that they b made parties defendant in the case.

The petitioners attack the validity of the bonds held by the Central Trust Company on that part of the road which runs between Marietta and North Carolina line.

They aver that they are stockholders in that road to the amount of $9,475 each; that under the original charter of the company it was authorized to build, equip and operate a railroad from the city of Marietta, in the county of Cobb, and through Cherokee, Pickens, Gilmer and Fannin counties to the North Carolina line.

A meeting of the stockholders appears t have been held on the 14th of April, 1887, at which meeting all the stockholders were not represented, but simply a majority. At this eeting the president and secretary were instructed to prepare and execute articles of consolidation between said railway company and the Georgia and North Carolina Railroa Company, a corporation of the state of North

This meeting adjourned to meet on Saturday, 23d of April. At the meeting over 39,000 shares out of a total of 55,717 were represented. Petitioners say they had no as to either of these meetings, and that the proceedings had thereat were entirely void for want of notice. The proceedings looking to a consolidation were likewise void for want of power in the company to pass the same without the consent of all the stockholders. On the 13th of May, 1887, another meeting was held, at which a resolution was passed re-citing that the two railroads had agreed to consolidate on certain terms, forming a continuous line from Marietta through Murphy to some point on the Tennessee line, a corporation with the franchises and privileges of both companies, to be known as the Marietta and North Georgia Railway Company, and increasing the stock to $1,300,000.

The petition further sets out that on the 25th of November, 1890, an attempt was made to consolidate with a corporation known as the Knoxville Southern Railroad Company under the laws of Tennessee; that this was done at a called meeting of which petitioners had no notice, and that at it the stock was in creased to $5,500,000, and the principal office moved from Marietta to Knoxville.

It appears from the petition that the road from Marietta to Murphy was bonded to broaden the gauge to Murphy and to construct the road to Knoxville, and petitioners say it is illegal to incumber the property without their consent to provide means to build a road in Tennessee; that said bonds and mortgages executed with a view to create a lien on the property, are illegal, null and void. The petitioners say that all the acts lookvoid. The petitioners say with other roads, bonds and mortgages given to assist other roads, the famendment to the charter permitting consolidation, are void, being done without their consent and in violation of their rights, as original subscribers to the stock and stockholders, and that the Central Trust Company had actual officers on whom they can call and is concluded by its conduct from making defense to plaintiff's cause.

There are a number of stockholders through north Georgia who stand in the same position to the roads as those filing the petition, and

How to Buy Groceries. A question of interest to everybody.

A little reflection is all that is needed to convince anyone that the question of "How to Buy Groceries?" is one of importance to everyone; for eating is one of the necessities of life, and a good, eating is one of the necessities of life, and a good, well-filled table its greatest luxury. Now in answering this question, the first requisite should be pure, fresh goods. Go to some store where everything is kept clean and neat, and where you are sure of getting fresh goods of the very best are sure of getting fresh gsods of the very quality.

Surely if there is anything that we should be careful about, it is that everything that we eat should be of the best quality and absolutely pure and fresh. Now we claim to handle only the very best qual-

Besides, our store and our goods are kept scrupulously clean. Everything that dust can injure is kept under glass, and we invite all to come and inspect our stock of pure, fresh, clean and first-class groceries.

The next requisite in buying groceries is price. Today a lady, while buying a bill, remarked: "Why Mr. Hoyt, I just paid 20jeents for Windham corn and you only charge me 15 cents," On being priced Rijamo coffee, she said that she had always paid 40 cents for coffee until she bought ours and that ours was better. Another lady bought just then some of our fine Jersey butter at 35 cents, remarking that it was the best she could find and 5 cents per pound cheaper than any other. And we could go on through our stock convincing you both of the quality and cheapers of our goods, but the above will suffice:

WEST END REJOICES SOMETHING TANGIBLE AT LAST IN

The Atlanta, West End and Fort Mo-Pherson Company to Be Running Cars in Ninety Days.

THE WAY OF BAPID TRANSIT.

At last, it seems, West End has son angible ahead in the way of rapid transit. It comes in the shape of a proposition from the Atlanta, West End and Fort McPherson Railway Company.

The city council of West Fnd met last evening and gave the necessary right of way.

The new line leaves the present system and starts in West End at McDaniel street, where starts in West End at McDaniel street, where the power house will be, and goes across the city from east to west to Holderness street, which is the western boundary.

The route takes in Gordon street, along which they have a right of way conjointly with the company owning the present line.

The Atlanta, West End and Fort McPher son Company gives bond to commence the con-struction of an electric line on this right of ning inside of ninety days.

The representatives of the new company, at the council meeting last night were Messrs.

Mountain and Woodward. This line will give a fifteen-minute schedule; and it does look as if West Erfd at last is going to have rapid transit.

QUITE LIVELY IT WAS.

THE SESSION OF THE GENERAL COUNCIL YESTERDAY.

Mr. Hendrix and Mr. King Pass a Few Un inplimentary Remarks, But Made Friends-What the Council Did.

Bushville can raise a war lots easier othar the Mafia.

A dead Italian or two is nowhere to that end of the fifth ward when it comes to digging up the hatchet.

This was proven by the general council yes

The war cloud arose early in the session and did not disappear until the body adjourned. Mr. Hendrix, the senior member of the fourth, and Mr. King, the senior sixth warder, formed and led the two factions.

And Marshal Loyd, assisted by Chief Connolly, Captain Manley and Sergeant Moss, of the police department, commanded by Mayor Pro Tem. Middlebrooks, put a stop to the

But before the meeting was over, friends of both gentlemen began trying to make peace. Immediately after an adjournment Mr. Turner, Mr. Rice, Mr. Middlebrooks, Mr. Murphy, and Mr. Broyles secured a perfect reconciliation, and the two gentlemen walked away from the city hall arm in arm.

This morning both will smile when they see how they lost their temper. And today they will be better friends than ever.

The War Cloud Rises.

Mr. Lambert, chairman of the street com mittee, was the innocent cause of the war. Presenting the clerk with a paper, he re-"Here's a petition from citizens in the fifth ward who want some work done." With a harmless smile Mr. Lambert sat

The paper, as read by Clerk Woodward, rej resented that "the owners of the property fa-cetiously termed Bushville, who had agreed to donate to the public enough land for the extension of Lambert and Walnut streets, provided the city would appropriate $700 to work the streets, have given notice of their intention to withdraw the property." The paper asserted that public interest demanded that the parties be held to their proposition, at the same time declaring that the true value of the land offered for streets was many times greater than the $700 given by the council. Those who signed the paper, and there was a long list of signers, asked that the property owners be held to their contract, asserting that a large number of citizens would be greatly injured by the revocation of the agreement lithout these streets they cannot have access to the city, to their homes, or to their schools The paper was signed by nearly 100 property owners.

"I am in favor of holding them to their proposition to give these streets," said Mr. Reinhardt. "I'm opposed to letting 'em back down one inch. The improvement and the benefit to the people are out of sight when compared to the expenditure."

"Only those who have investigated this matter," said Mr. Lambert, "can appreciate the situation. There is an absolute necessity for this work and any one who will familiarize himself with the facts will agree with me."

"I have a resolution," said Mr. Turner as Mr. Lambert sat down.

Mr. Lambert sat down.

Whereas, There is no street-way opened for convenient access to Davis street school.

Resolved, That Thurmond street be opened up and put to the permanent grade from Marietta street west to the west line of the school lot, where it intersects with Walnut street; that the middle of Thurmond street, from Haynes street west, be made fifty feet in width, and that side walks and curbing be laid on Thurmon, on the south side, from Marietta to Haynes and on both sides from Haynes to Lambert, and that Lambert street be opened and put to a grade from Thurman street north to Emma street with sidewalk and curbing laid thereon, and the sum of $500, in addition to what has been heretofore passed for Lambert street, be and the same is hereby appropriated to carry out the foregoing work. Mr. Woodward came up calmly and with dignity, saying:

"I desire to make an explanation. My opposition to the work has always been based upon the fact that I could not see the necessity for it. I have opposed it because it been rumored, and never denied either, that this money was to be spent in cutting streets through and improving property belenging to city officials, members of this body And I will always oppose such is a necessity, and the poor home owners wantit, then I'll be for paying twice that amount. But I'll never vote a dollar of the city's money to such schemes as this is supposed to have."

of the city's money to such schemes as this is supposed to have."

Mr. Hendrix interrupted the speaker several times, and as the gentleman sat down the fourth ward's senior representative arose.

"The gentlemen." said he, "who own this property have never asked the city for a cent. They own that land, and, appreciating the necessity of the street and the great good they will do the people who live over there, have said they would give the land for the streets if the city would furnish that amount of money to work them out—"

"For one," exclaimed Mr. Woodward, "I don't want to take the street, when landowners want to give them —."

ers want to give them —."
"We don't want you to take 'em now," said

"We don't want you to take 'em now," said Mr. Hendrix warmly.
"I'm toid," said Mr. Woodward, "that members of this council own the land."
That's a faisehood," exclaimed Mr. Hendrix, leaning forward in his chair.
"Then there's the man who tells the falsehood," repeated Mr. Woodward.

As he made the remark he pointed his finger at Coionel Spears, who sat in the audience.

"He is the man," continued Mr. Woodward warmly, "who told me, and he told me, too, that you were his informant, and that yo was opposed to spending the money —."

"I hope you won't spend a cent now," said
Mr. Hendrix, twirling his eye glasses.

"When I get through," said Mr. Woodward,
"you may talk. Don't interrupt me any more —."

"Then confine yourself to the truth," said Mr. Hendrix, warmly.
"I'm doing that and I'm responsible for what I say," said Mr. Woodward.
"So am I," replied Mr. Hendrix.
"I'm told," and Mr. Woodward's voice went higher and he grew warmer, "that Mr. Inman, Mayor Hemphil and yourself own it, and that you are the agent to sell it."

Mr. Middlebrooks's gavel had been going all the time this interesting colloquy was in progress, and here it came down with a loud bang.

"Order, gentlemen, order," he cried.

Mr. Woodward hesitated a minute and then

Mr. Woodward hesitated a minute and then continued:

"I think the people out there should have a chance to come in if they want to, and I'm infavor of going after them, if necessary. But I ain't in favor of going out there just to get through that twenty-six acres of land."

"People generally," remarked Mr. Lambert, "Don't understand the question. That $700 is to work Lambert street—is to do the very work Mr. Woodward says he wants to do. We have wanted that work for three years, but Mr. DeGive would never give the land for the streets. I'm as much to blame as any one for wanting this work. But as it benefits the people over there, I see where no one is to blame."

"I never heard before." said Mr. King. "of

"I never heard before," said Mr. King, "of that withdrawal. But if the gentlemen are in good faith I say take no technical advantage of them. If we need the streets we can condemn the land and get them. I move we refer it all to the street committee, for I don't think many of us have been out there to investigate it."

gate it."

"But the work on Simpson street," said Mr.
Lambert, "will be delayed. We can take the dirt out of Lambert for Simpson. We all know the situation, so there's no use to refer it."

"Since something has been said about the ownership of the land," said Mr. Hendrix, "I'd like to tell whose it is. I have nothing to conceal about it, and never had. I guess everybody who has cared to investigate, know the self. We will take it as a favor to be relieved from Mr. Inman's proposition to give this land. It was made, too, I want to say, before Mr. Hemphill became mayor. We never asked the city to give anything. On the contrary, we said we would give the city Lambert and Walnut streets, if it would grade them in time for us to conform to the grade. All we asked was to have it done in time for our work. We gave $7,000 to $8,000 for $700 and we would like to be relieved."

"All these charges with which we have "All these charges with which we have been regaled," said Mr. Shropshire, "are a disgrace.

People are looking here for investments

I learn there are large amounts of money here in our banks now for this purpose.

"And yet there are those who seem not to be in sympathy with this administration. The instructions which have been made against nuations which have been made against insinations which have been made against our honorable mayor and other gentlemen of this council are, I believe, unfounded, unjust and untrue, are reflections on the city government, and are beneath the dignity of any respectable body of gentlemen. What are the grounds for complaint? What has been done te incite and excite the populace? What schemes have been perpetrated behind the screen? We have various committees to look into the merits of each petition and application, and have the mayor and street committee sworn have the mayor and street committee sworn allegiance to "Bushville?" Have these honare there and to the rest of the set of the gentlemen, not a word of truth in it.

"I'm not on the street committee," said Mr.
Turner, "but I am here to represent the fifth ward and I want to see that ward get what it ward and I want to see that ward get what it should have. It has always been neglected and poorly provided for. It is looked upon by some as the black sheep of the family. Last year out of all the money spent we got $17,000. Was that enough? If you think so, compare it with the other wards. Now we want $500 for Thurmond street and $700 for Bushville. What is the result? There's a hue and cry and other crimes are charged to our door. The people, at least some of them, seem to think that we, the fifth ward, have lived so long without anything that we shall have nothing. Still we pay our taxes. We have to do that. But when we get something they yell Bush-

But when we get something they yell Bushville, Bushville, Bushville."

Mr. Turner's key went higher each time.
"I am here," he went on, "to legislate for measures, and not for men. If, in doing that, I benefit Inman, Hemphill or Hendrix, I can't help it, because I don't care who owns the property. I'm spending that money in Bushville because it benefits the fifth ward. Shall we sit here quietly because Hemphill happens to own a little land out there? I shan't." ville, Bushville, Bushville shan't."

"I have said nothing so far," said Mr. Murphy, "because I have, like Mr. Shropshire, felt ashamed to come here because of the slanderous talk. We have an alarmist in our midst, but it's useless to call his name. Though covered with a lion's skin, his mule ears stick out, and we all see him the ass he is."
"I wanted that reference," said Mr. King, "only in justice to this council. I am a member of this body, and so is the mayor, who owns land out there. As a body, the committee has never been out there. I'm no alarmist, but I want to keep my skirts clear. Let's mittee has never been out there. I'm no alarmist, but I want to keep my skirts clear. Let's take time and see. If this measure benefits the government, we should all be for it. I attended one meeting of the street committee where this subject was discussed, and —'' "Please tell what occurred there, Mr. King," said Mr. Hendrix.

"Well, you said," said Mr. King, "that the work would cost $500 to $600, but when I asked the city engineer to get his profile you said it would cost $600 to $700." Here the interest increased.

Here the interest increased.

"But," went on Mr. King, "the city engineer said 'twould cost $1,300 to $1,500—"

"How many members of the committee looked at Calhoun street, Mr. King?" asked Mr. Hendrix, warmly.
Mr. King talked on, and Mr. Hendrix repeated his question.

"That $1,000 on Calhoun street," continued Mr. King, "was passed up a year or two ago, Again Mr. Hendrix repeated his question, adding: "And how near does it go to your prop-M Instantly Mr. King turned red in the face,

I had intended to say nothing. You tried to get me to help you through, and when you found I wouldn't you took advantage of my absence to push it through—"

Here the audience was in a fever of excitement.

THE GRAND ARMY.

Twenty-Fifth Anniversary of the G. A. R. Celebrated. In honor of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the organization of the Grand Army of the Republic, the O. M. Mitchell Post, of Atlanta, and its auxiliary the Woman's Relief Corps held a brilliant celebration last night.

The exercises occurred at the Church of the Redeemer, on West Ellis street, Mr. Thomas Kirk acting as master of ceremonies. After brief devotional services Colonel W.

S. DeWolf read a communication from the headquarters in Rutland, Vt., sent by W. G. Neadquarters in Rutiand, Vr., sent by W. G. Veazey, the commander in chief. Among other interesting points, the history of the order was dwelt upon, being briefly this:

The Grand Army of the Republic was organized by Dr. B. F. Stephenson and Captain W. J. Rutledge, of Illinois. They met in March, 1866, at Springfield, and there began, under modest circumstances. The first agree property.

1866, at Springfield, and there began, under modest circumstances. The first encampment was held there in the following July, with Comrade S. A. Huribut as the first commander in chief. From this time the order continued to prosper until today it numbers over 400,000 noble members. To John A. Logan much of these results are due.

Mrs. C. W. Hubner followed with a poem suitable to the occasion, and then Mr. A. B. Carrier pleased the large number present with a vocal solo.

vocal solo. Colonel W. S. DeWolf next read an original poem which was replete with pleasing remin-iscences, stirring appeals, and loyal senti-ments. Mrs. W. M. After Rev. W. H. Crawford had given an address, in which he explained the symbol of the order—fraternity, loyalty, charity—and paid a high tribute to the immortal commanders in the war, of north and of south, the celebration was closed with prayer by Dr. Mayo, of Boston. The affair was enjoyable and entertaining, and will long be a memorable one to those who were so fortunate as to have attended it. In Memory of Mr. Porter.

The Myrtle Lodge of Odd Fellows held a memorial meeting last night, a token of respect for their late brother, Mr. J. C. Porter, their first departed member. The following resolutions were adopted:

Resolved, That Myrtle lodge, No. 25, is stricken with deep sorrow in the death of Brother Past Grand J. C. Porter, the first of all the members of the lodge to leave ut for the spirit land. The memory of his many noble and manly virtues is imperishably graven upon the tablets of our imperishably graven upon the tablets of our hearts.

Resolved, 2, That we tender our sincere sympathy to his widow and family in their bereavement. Resolved, 3, That as a testimonial of our affection to the memory of the brother who is gone, the charter of this lodge be draped in mourning for the space of thirty days; that a page in our record book be devoted to his memory; that a copy of these resolutions be sent to his family, and that they be published in the Atlanta daily papers and in The Southern Lodge Secret.

REV. MR. WADSWORTH STIRS UP AUGUSTA

and Calls the City Officers by Name When Alluding to Them-Society People Also Bitterly Arraigned.

Augusta, Ga., April 6.—[Special.]—The sermon of Rev. W. W. Wadsworth, in St. John's Baptist church, has created a big sensation in Augusta, and is the talk of the town today. His text was taken from the passage in the Bible in which Gomorrah is condemned thus: "Curse ye, the inhabitants thereof, bit-He alluded to Augusta as a modern terly." Gomorrah, and tackled the mayor, the council and the citizens without gloves. He said:

City's officers, persons high in authority, are in collusion with evil-doers, aiding and abetting them in their deeds. Mayor May, the first officer of the city, pandered to the votes of barkeepers and their constituents, and when they were arraigned for violating God's holy Sabbath, by selling spirituous liquors thereon, he either worked to spirituous liquors thereon, he either worked to acquit them or remitted the fines imposed by a more conscientious judge. One of the members of council a short while ago was convicted of keeping a gambling house, and he still holds his position in that body. "How can a city prosper when such men are in power?" The press, the great moulders of public opinion, are silent on the subject. They, too, seem lulled into a daugerous disregard of corruption in our midst. of corruption in our midst. Gambling hells and billiard rooms, however, are not the only places where games of chance are carried en, or where the social glass is drained. Another and equally dangerous practice is gaming carried on in the houses of society people, where cards are played for prizes, and the losers are comforted by glasses of punch between hands. The sermon has waked people up and has caused considerable comment today. Many agree with Mr. Wadsworth, others think he acted wrong in being so personal and using the pulpit to make examples of his discourse. Badly Bunged Up .- Jack Griffin and Sam Vaughn, two railroad men, took a stroll on Col-lins street last night. How it happened neither one could tell exactly, but when a couple of pe licemen got them they looked like they had run through a sausage machine. Griffin had a terri-ble gash on the head, and Vaughn's eyes and nose combined a puzzle in anatomy. Both were in fine spirits, however, and remarked that the police

My physicians exhausted their remedies, and for one year I was not able to even articulate a word. ODE TO THE SPRUDEL.

Sacred font: flow on forever, Health on mankind still bestow; If a virgin woo thee—give her Rosy cheeks and beauty's glow.

If an old man, make him younger, Suffering mortal soothe and save, Happier send them home and stronger, All who quaff thy fervid wave.

These lines were written by Lab cowitz, the great Bohemian poet, and were translated from the Latin by Lord Alvanel. They were inscribed upon a bronze tablet, and placed in a conspicuous position to be seen by the multitudes who visit Carlsbad. It glorifies the virtue of the Sprudel Spring, from which the celebrated Sprudel Salt is obtained, in glowing terms. Goethe, Schiller, Herder, and nearly all poets, have written in prose and rhyme of the great virtues of the Spring, and many had reasons to be truly thankful. Goethe especially, whose life was prolonged for a considerable time by the use of the waters. To obtain the genuine Carlsbad Mineral Water or the Sprudel Salt powder form, which is made by the evaporation of the Sprudel Water), see that it bears the signature of Eisner & Mendelson Co., Agents, New York, on the bottles. None is genuine without it.

On Friday or Saturday of next week—the date has not been definitely fixed—the Clevelands and Pittsburgs will be in Atlanta and will play at Piedmont park.

These two clubs have been in Florida for the past three weeks, getting preliminary practice under the balmy sunshine of the warm winter and springtime there. On the 14th the clubs leave Jacksonville for Macon, there they will play two games. Whother they play here on the 17th or 18th has not been definitely arranged, but that they will play one day or the other is certain.

This will certainly be a treat to lovers of baseball. Both of these clubs contain the best of material and their play in Florida has onstrated that the strength of the teams is by no means all on paper.

Mr. George W. Howe, a famous baseball magnate who is one of the directors of the Cleveland club, said the other day: "Our club has the strongest batting infield of any slub in the country. Our material is all firstclass and we think we are going to astonish the natives this year. The Pittsburg club is a strong one and the clubs are evenly matched."

The clubs are made up as follows, the list being taken from their last game at St. Au-

SPA SPRING AT INMAN PARK. Two Strong Endorsements of It Received by Mr. Hurt Yesterday

The Spa spring at Inman park is attracting siderable attention now. The analysis of the water ranks it as a valtable discovery.

These two letters, which explain themselves,

These two letters, which explain themselves, were received by Mr. Hurt yesterday:

ATLANTA, Ga., April 6.—Mr. Joel Hurt, President East Atlanta Land Company, Atlanta, Ga.: In reply to your inquiry I would say that, from the published analysis of the water of Spa spring, binan park, by Mr. McCandless, it must prove good tonic to those in an anaemic condition, requiring chalybeate preparations, and as this is one of the common conditions of weak and enfeebled individuals I have no doubt the water will prove a great boom to our city invalids.

The other salts are equally necessary to build up and maintain a healthy body, and must thus add to the efficiency of the water.

I think we are fortunate in having "at home" health-giving mineral waters from nature's fountain, and not having to "go abroad" to find them.

G. G. Roy, M. D.

ATLANTA, Ga., April 6, 1891.—Mr. Joel Hurt, President East Atlanta Land Company—My Dear Sir: I have carefluly examined the analysis of the water of the Spa spring, Inman park, recently made by Professor McCandless, and am free to may that the combination of the iron and manganese, together with the other salts present, all of

In chlorosis and anemia and all those conditions attendant thereon, its use, I should think, would produce very beneficial results.

The analysis presented certainly gives me good reason to believe that you have in Inman park a water which will prove of great benefit and value. Very truly yours,

W. C. JARNAGIN, M.D. invalids.

A new election was ordered for the next meeting, which occurs two weeks hence.

Captain Sam Jones and Major J. W. Scully, of the United States army, and Mr. E. A. Messa were elected honorary members.

ANOTHER VERSION

Of The Stockbridge Shooting Affray-Two

Sides of the Tale. Here is another side of the Stockbridge shooting affray from a gentleman who lives there and was on the train. He says: "In justice to Mr. Walter Hightower, of Stockbridge, I write this in regard to the little Affray on the East Tennessee train last Saturaffray on the East Tennessee train last Saturday night. Mr. Hightower was standing in the aisle talking to some friends when the negro asked to pass. He stepped as close to the seat as possible, and even leaned over that he might pass, when the negro placed his hand upon his back and pushed him over. Mr. Hightower turned and struck him, whereupon the negro grabbed him and pushed him over the seat, and was in the act of striking him. Mr. Hightower attempted to draw his pistol and the negro grabbed it. In the scuffle the pistol was fired. No one wrenched it from him.

If the recorder does not possess an excellent insight into human nature, the fault is his own. The varied characters that appear before him on all possible charges afford an opportunity such as is difficult to get elsewhere.

To the analyses.

To the audience, too, a chance for this is given, and a careful observer can frequently read guilt or innoceance before the accusation is pronounced. Here, too, occur incidents pathetic, humorous or interesting, which produce a decided effect. A young boy by the name of Frank Howard was fined $15 yesterday for misdements. young boy by the name of Frank Howard was fined $15 yesterday for misdemeanor. He knew what it meant. For a moment he stood with a pitful look, and then removing his coat—which was in a good condition—handed it to some friend to keep until he had worked out his sentence. Luckily for him it is a manufactured.

The case was a hotly contested one, and shortly after 5 o'clock the case went to the jury with a careful and well-considered charge by Judge Clarke.

The Trials of Winter. The Trials of Winter.

Winter is a trying period, even to those who have strong constitutions, but it is doubly trying to those who are weak and delicate, or who have a tendency to the various diseases that are bred and fostered in the stagnant atmosphere of closed and unheated houses. The system should be kept strengthened and toned up with a liberal course of S. S. S., the great blood tonic and purifier. It acts like a charm. It increases the appetite, soothes the nerves and beautifies the complexion—in short, it makes life well worth living.

RAISING THE FALLEN.

THE MINISTERS OF ATLANTA SET OF FOOT A NOBLE REFORM.

After a Long Discussion the Co tory Resolutions in Regard to Church Fairs Are Tabled.

To rescue the fallen women of the city and the state is the latest noble movement inaugu-rated by the Evangelical Ministers' Associa tion of Atlanta.

The association met at the First Methodist church yesterday morning, and took up the unfinished business of the last meeting. The first matters for consideration were the resolutions introduced by Rev. Dr. Anderson, condemning church fairs, festivals, literary entertainments and other similar schemes for raising church funds.

There was a protracted discussion of this question, and a substitute was introduced conmning the abuse of these entertainments. Finally Rev. Dr. Walker Lewis moved to lay the whole matter on the table, and in this motion the meeting concurred. The Home For the Fallen The only other matter was the resolution presented by Rev. Dr. Lewis, looking toward the providing of a home of refuge for fallen In the introduction he made a very telling speech, showing how crying was the need for such an institution, where the hopeless might find hope and the sorrowing might be com-He spoke of the great responsibility devolving on the Christian people of the city in regard to the salvation of fallen women. Following him, Rev. Dr. Anderson made a strong appeal in behalf of this great charitable and Christian movement, and Rev. Dr. King and others were equally earnest in support

Never was there a stronger unanimity exhibited in a body of Christian men than in that meeting for the endorsement of the resolution.

A COMMITTEE APPOINTED. On motion, a committee of seven, consisting of Rev. Dr. J. B. Hawthorne, chairman, Rev. Dr. G. B. Strickler, Rev. Dr. J. W. Lee, Rev. Walker Lewis, Rev. Virgil Norcross, Rev. Dr. R. S. Barrett and Rev. A. G. Thomas.

It was resolved that this committee make direct and urgent appeal to the citizens of At-lanta for funds to build a home for the fallen lanta for funds to build a nome for the taken women of the city and state.

Already a number of people have offered to donate liberally to this good cause, and the ministers propose to formulate and bring before the public at once the proper plan for raising the money.

It is a great work, and will meet with a generous and ready response from the people of the city and state.

AN ODD FELLOWS' ANNIVERSARY To Be Celebrated in Atlanta on Monday, the 27th of April.

The Odd Fellows of Atlanta will celebrate Monday, April 27th, as the seventy-second anniversary of the establishment of the order in America, the 26th falling on Sunday.

Under the proclamation of Grand Master James A. Anderson, committees from the six Atlanta lodges met last night in the hall of Martie lodges to make suitable arrangements. A LIBERAL QUANTITY. A STRONG REMEDY

Attanta lodges met last night in the hall or Myrtle lodge, to make suitable arrangements. Various committees were appointed, and the affair promises to be one of unusual interest. Mr. Alex Dittler was chairman of the meeting; Mr. Charles F. Rice, secretary.

There will be six or seven speeches by distinguished Odd Fellows, followed with a banguet at Concordia hall. quet at Concordia hall.

HAVING RETIRED FROM THE WILSON Coal and Lumber Co., on the 28th of February, 1891, I recommend to my successors the patronage of my friends.

I shall be engaged for the next two months at the office, 24 South Broad street, Atlanta. Ga.

I commenced in the real estate, renting and collection of accounts, in this city, in September, 1865, and continued in it until the fall of 1807, when the Coal Creek coal mines were opened in East Tennessee; then, through the kindness of Major Campbell Wallace, who had the first coal from these mines shipped to me, I soon found that there was more demand for coal than land, in this city, and I commenced in that business. It is my intention, about the 1st of May, to return to the real estate business again, trusting that my old friends and the citizens of Atlanta will give me a share of their patronage, pledging them that I will use my best endeavors to serve them faithfully. Respectfully,

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET.

The Day on the Floor of the New York Stock

The Day on the Floor of the New York Stock Exchange.

NEW YORK, April 6.—The stock market today underwent a sudden change in its character, and from the duliness and the listlessness of the past two weeks there was a jump into activity and decided strength, which was almost a welcome relief to the street after its long stagnation. As a result of the operations of the day, almost everything traded in shows a material improvement over last week's figures. The feeling on the street this morning was pronounced to be upon the bulls' side, and even traders were, seemingly to a man, enlisted in that side of the market, while speculators who have held their stocks through the long depression in business, were as sanguine as ever. The stimulating influence, however, undoubedly came from Chicago, and stocksiln which that center is interested took the lead in the early rise, while outstripping everything else in the amount of business recorded. Chicago gas was the prime favorite, but Burlington and Rock Island were not far behind, and St. Paul. Atchison and Union Pacific followed closely. The only stocks other than these which attained any prominence during the day were Sugar, New England and Cordage. The new movement on the part of the Chicago people may indicate that the time has come, in their opinion, to bull stocks, owing principally to the adjournment of the western legislatures and the final defeat of anti-railroad legislation, or it may mean that speculation in cereais has culminated, and capital which has been so long locked up in these deals is now free to seek other channels of profit. However this may be, there is no question but that the advance today was due to buying for long account, and the market having resisted so strenuously all depressing influences of the past few' months, following among local operators will not be hard to accumulate. The financial situation on the other side is not all that could be desired, but it has ceased to have any terrors for Americans, and the low state of the reserve of th Exchange.

NEW YORK, April 6.—The market today has been exceedingly dull, with but a very nominal business doing. Prices were rether firm at an advance of about two points. Notwithstanding continued liberal receipts the firmness being caused by a few reports of cold weather in certain sections of the south, to which, however, we attach very little importance, all the more so since predictions are again for warmer weather.

The market may continue to drag along in absence of speculation, though we believe that it will be a difficult matter to sustain prices with a continuance of such heavy receipts for any length of time.

Hubbard, Price & Co.'s Circular.

NEW YORK, April 6—[Special.]—The market continues inactive; receipts continue large and southern advices with regard to the next crop continue to somewhat discouraging in tone. These thee acts combine to establish an equilibrium of speculiation and deter operators from taking any interest one either side. The Liverpool market is partially 1-64 lower and spot sales there are only 7,000 bales. Private cables are rather discouraging in tone, and there seems but slight hope that any immediate revival can be expected from that source. The trading here has been extremely limited. The cotton held up for long account appears to be in strong hands, and such fresh short interest as the bears have been willing to put out are about offset by the covering demand from day to day. Port receipts are 13,230 for fite day, and for the three days thus far 26,000 bales against 23,000 bales for the entire week last year. The close was quiet and the general disposition is to await new developments. Meantime stocks increase and there is a daily supply of cotton for sale here against arbitrage purchasers in Liverpool, which is now relatively the lowest market in the world.

Features of the Speculative Movement in Grain and Provisions.

CHICAGO, April 6.—An extreme weakness characterized the opening of speculative trading, and wheat started to lower than it closed Saturday. Corn and oats were almost equally limp, and provisions were also pressed for sale at same time. Considerable recovery took place, but not until late in the session, after shorts had had abundant opportunities to recover their sales of Saturday and the early part of the day. There was repetition in the wheat pit at the start of the scene enacted Saturday morning. No one asked over $1.03 for May wheat, as against $1.03% at close of previous session, but buyers were extremely searce until it could be bought at $1.02%. The prime moving cause for the break was very general, and the belief among local exports was that the late bull campaign was absndoned for the present, and a reaction from the recent advance was naturally looked for. The particular the same of the waster of the day, and a direction. Finally the searcity which pervaded the bull ranks was trausierred to the other party, and an advance of 1½c was brought about in the course of the last hours' trading. The whole of the recovery did not stick, but May wheat closed at $1.03%.

The corn market was very heavy at the opening, and trading was extremely irregular. Sales, all the way from 67c to 66½c, took place at same time. The weakness continued until wheat turned up, but a recovery in corn did not respond to the full all advance made by other cereais. May sold off to 65%c and recovered to 65%c, which was the ruing price at the close.

The weakness in oats Saturday and the simpy condition of the market at the opening frightened the longs, who proceeded to unload. A decline of $400.00 to the cereais. May sold off to 65%c and recovered to 55%c. And recovered to 55%c. the weakness tool her price at the close.

The market was only fairly active, May started at 63%c. Then the price weakned to 55%c. And recovered to 55%c. And a condition of the market at the opening frightened the longs, who proceeded to Grain and Provisions.

CHICAGO, April 6.—Ali speculative articles on our board opened rather easy, and immediately sold off materially. May wheat sold at $1.02; May corn under 66 cents, and May pork around $12.10. It seems as if the crowd could not seil enough, and, as is frequently the case, they sold too much as subsequent events proved. When wheat was around a low point, a good export demand was reported. Some 200,000 bushels was the amount. This, and a general desire of shorts to cover, set the crowd to buying furiously, and the closing found prices materially above the low point. Trading was quite active and the feeling was quite buillish. Hoiders of May contracts are strong in their views, and possibly may be able to make a strong showing if many shorts are still out. In corn and oats, the late strength was due more to the decreasel in visible, when an increase was conducted by the contracts are such as the conductive typected. ently expected.

Even provisions had an inning. The report that Germany had decided to remove the embargo upon Germany had decided to remove the embargo upon American bucon was the bullish influence and turned the current of prices upward. Very seldom do we see a similar influence at all of the pits at the same time, but it seemed that everything was unison.

THE GEORGIA BAPTISTS

BET IN CONVENTION AT HAWKINS VILLE TODAY.

thing About the Body and Its Work-

The Southern Baptist Convention and the Mission Centennial in 1892. pessee train will carry delegations from the Atlanta churches to the state Baptist conven-ion, which meets at Hawkinsville today. The convention will be in session three or four days and much important work will be done, and it is not possible to tell what will come up. There are, however, several sub jects which always take up considerable of the time of the convention, and contribute much to the interest of its proceedings. The principal of these is Mercer university, the trustees of which institution are elected every three years by the convention. tion. They were elected last year at Washington, and will hold office till the convention of 1893 meets. of 1893 meets.

For some time there has been a continued effort to increase the endowment fund of the university, and G. A. Nunnally, the president, has traveled over nearly every section of Georgia on that mission. This subject will come up, and a great effort will be made to give a new impetus to the work. Many of the most prominent and useful men in Georgia were educated at Mercer university, and the institution has a stronghold on the affections of the Baptists of the state. Last night at Macon the new chanel was dedicated, and number of the delegates went that far on the way to the convention yesterday to witnes

The subject of missions, home and foreign is always a prominent one at the Baptist con ventions, and will be unusually so this year or account of the great progress which the denomination has made in Cuba, largely by the efforts of Georgia Baptists. On this account, especially, it will be regretted that Dr. J. T. Tichenor, of the home mission board, is detained in Atlanta by a case in court. The board will be well represented by Dr. J. William Jones, the secretary, who goes down this morning.

One item of special interest in Atlanta will be an effort to push forward the work of rais ing money for the erection of an orphans home, for which Mr. Jonathan Norcross, of this city, has conveyed to the Baptist women of Georgia twenty acres of valuable land, near the city limits of Atlanta. Mrs. Harvey Hather, the president of the orphans' home, will be at Haw-kinsville in attendance on the Woman's Christian Association which meets at the same place, during the session of the Baptist

The Georgia Baptist convention will appoint delegates to the southern Baptist convention, which meets at Birmingham on Friday, May 8th. In the Southern Baptist convention there will be some interesting subjects outside the usual questions. It has been proposed to celebrate in 1892 the centennial of modern missions, and the matter is in charge of Dr. J. L. M. Curry, Dr. Eaton, of Louisville; Dr. Ellis, of Baltimore, and Dr.

Pritchard, of Wilmington.

The publication of Sunday school literature will again come up, and it is reported that the Louisville |book concern will make a bid for the publication of the Kind Words series now printed in Atlanta by the Franklin Publishing house. The Louisville book concern is a strong denominational publishing house, which aims to do for the southern Baptist convention what the Methodist book concern of Nashville does for that denomination.

The officers of the state Baptist convention which meets at Hawkinsville today are: Mod-erator, J. H. Kilpatrick, of White Plains; clerk, G. R. McCall, of Macon; assistant clerk, F. C. McConnell, of Gainesville; treas-urer, S. A. Burney, of Madison.

A CALLED MEETING. The County Commissioners Again in Session Yesterday. There was a called meeting of the county commissioners yesterday for the purpose of considering several matters of importance.

A petition, presented by Mr. Pat Calhoun, Mr. J. J. Spalding and others, asking for a new road, was read and discussed. The proposed road is to be an extension of Wilson avenue to be sixty feet wide and about threefourths of a mile long, and will run along from a point known as Spalding's corner, on Peachtree road, to West Peachtree street. The county accepted the donation of the land for the road and referred the petition to the road commissioners of the district.

It was decided to have the work of grading Virginia avenue pushed forward as rapidly as

The question of the equalization of county and city property taxes was discussed, and the commissioners talked over the matter in a general way, but came to no definite conclu-

The main idea seemed to be to call the tax The main idea seemed to be to call the tax receiver's attention to frequent discrepancies in returns, as given in by the individual and as assessed by the city assessors. Another idea was to raise the assessment of suburban property now rising so rapidly in value, and thus equalize the burdens of taxation among all classes of property owners in and out of the city.

SHOE BUYERS ORGANIZE IN BOSTON. Colonel W. W. Draper, of Atlanta, Elected

Colonel W.W. Draper, of the firm of Draper, Moore & Co., of this city, has been elected president of a rather unique organization. That is the organization of boot and shoe buyers of the south and west.

Gentlemen representing the boot and shoe course of the south and west, meet each year in Boston to make their purchases of the great manufacturing establishments of that city and vicinity. The gathering together of these gentlemen is, naturally enough, an event of more than ordinary interest in Hubbusiness circles, as these gentlemen represent many millions of dollars.

This year's visit of the buyers to Boston has been made memorable by A Philatelist Society.

Every boy in Atlanta should get his stamps that he laid away a few years ago and come up to the Young Men's Library Association building, on Decatur street, next Thursday at 4 o'clock, and have a royal good time.

A word of explanation:

A society was formed a few weeks ago, by several boys of this city, for the purpose of A Philatelist Society.

A society was formed a few weeks ago, by several boys of this city, for the purpose of encouraging and aiding the stamp collectors of Georgia. The president of the Young Men's Library Association has kindly consented to allow them to have their meetings in the comfortable and spacious rooms of the library, and they should be encouraged, for they could have no better object in view.

Stamp collecting is a very instructive and fascinating occupation. From a stamp you will want to look up the history of the country that issued the stamps, and why such a design was used, etc., withal, a more instructive study could not be found, and then their meeting in the Young Men's Library Associastudy could not be found, and then their meet ing in the Young Men's Library Association building gives them the advantage of several thousand volumes, and several magazines and papers for reference. A better place to hold the meetings could not be found.

Now, boys, listen. Get your albums and stamps that you put away a few years ago, come up to the Young Men's Library next Thursday afternoon, at 4 o'clock, and have the best time you have had in a long time. Bring a friend if you can.

TO PICK COTTON. MR. E. VAN WINKLE BELIEVES A

PRACTICABLE MACHINE IS MADE. He Describes It-It Will Gather 6,000 to 10,000 Pounds a Day-The Machines to Be Made Here.

Mr. E. Van Winkle, president of the Van Winkle Gin and Machinery Company, has just retured from New York, where he went for the purpose of examining a new cotton-picking machine.

He comes back thoroughly conviced that the problem has been solved; that the machine is a practical affair, and will pick from 6,000 to 10,000 pounds of cotton a day.

It is owned by the New York Cotton Harvester Company, of which Mr. Isaac Blum is

Mr. Blum is of the firm of Leon and Isaac Blum, of Galveston and New York; a gentleman of large means, and a member of one of the largest commercial houses in the United

"The machine," said Mr. Van Winkle yesterday, "was originally started in Texas, but on Mr. Blum's becoming connected with it, it was carried to New York, and the highest nechanical and inventive talent that could be obtained was secured to perfect the machine. It has finally been made a complete success. A DESCRIPTION OF IT.

"The three leading features for a machine to pick cotton," contined Mr. Van Winkle, "are, an arrangement to pick one part of the plant without disturbing the rest. The pickers are light and very flexible steel brushes that will first pick over the lower part of the plant as that all fruits at first. The underlying platform is a wonderful ingenious thing. It opens at the slightest pressure for the plant to pass through, but still it collects all that falls on it and passes it to the rear of the machine. This platform runs very close to the ground, and strikes or comes in contact with the stem or base stalk of the plant only, and is as easily parted on its surface as passing a stick through the surface of water. The third feature is a gathering elevator, which gathers the cotton that is passed to it and deposits it into a sack on the rear of the machine.

"These elements of the machine are the elements of success. Of course, a good deal of trash and hulls are collected with the cotton, but only in the last picking. The machine will gather from 6,000 to 10,000 pounds of cotton a day. This will enable the planter to take advantage of the weather, and the cotton will be easily saved. The question of trash and hulls in the cotton is not a material one, as we have perfected ginning machinery that entirely takes this out and greatly improves the market value of the lint. The dirt and hulls and trash in this machinery are not deposited together; the seed are kept separate by them-selves, thus adding to their value. In fact, cotton is now being picked by hand even more trashy than the machine does it, especially in the great prairie sections of Louisiana, Mississippi and Texas. The planters cannot control the picking any more and must have it done when and how they can get it. The immense value of the cotton harvester may be judged when it is a well-known fact that to simply pick out the last crop cost at least $75,000,000, and the ginning and packing expense is extra of this large amount. The machine is drawn by two horses, is light and durable, and will gather completely at least 90 per cent of all the cotton that is made on the

It is very probable that the company will have their machinery manufactured in At-lanta, which will bring a very large and important business here.

VACANT LOTS IN THE CITY FOR SALE AT INMAN PARK

April 15th, at 3 P. M.

April 19th, at 3 P. M.

MAPS OF THIS PROPERTY WILL BE distributed from my office in a few days. Water and gas pipes have been laid, streets graded, walks and drives perfected, making this residence park a thing of beauty. At the same time, it is acknowledged to be the equal of any portion of Atlanta in elevation, healthfulness and value. Edgewood avenue leads from the center of the city directly through the park, furnishing a magnificent, straight, paved street, with a double-tracked electric railroad line, giving communication with this property every seven and one-half minutes. Some of the best people in the south have built elegant homes upon Edgewood avenue, Elizabeth street, Waverly Way, Euchd avenue, Spruce and other streets. All the surroundings are simply perfect. The city has agreed to continue to make such improvements as are necessary. Ride over this great and prosperous city and make the comparison with other localities, and you will conclude that right now is the time to secure your home in Imman park. Several expensive buildings of the latest architectural proportions and beauty will be erected on these lovely grounds during the present year. It is a great comfort to know that your neighbor will build as fine a house as you do; that no shanty can confront you. Come in and get a plat, go upon the premises with your wire, and select your lot before the sale, and buy it. The terms are exceedingly liberal—only one-quarter cash, the balance in one, two and three years, 8 per cent interest. Remember that first-class Atlanta real estate advances annually. You are bound to lose money by waiting.

THIRD AND LAST CALL CLOSE IN PROPERTY AUCTIONEER GEORGE H. PRATT

The Sad Story of a Happy Family that Wa Broken Up by Insanity and Death-Her Father Dead, Her Mother Insane.

Miss Jessie Pratt was sent to Milledgeville

by City Warden Hunter yesterday morning.

Miss Pratt's mission is a sad one. She is the pretty daughter of Captain George H. Pratt, who died in Milledgeville on Sunday morning from an overdose of morphine. Misfortune never cômes singly. Only last week Mrs. Pratt, the mother of the young gir who was yesterday sent to Milledgeville, on Mayor Hemphill's order, became a hopeless maniac, and is now an inmate of the asylum in the city where her husband lies cold in

A few weeks ago the young girl was the pride and joy of a happy home. Almost at a single blow she was bereft of mother and father-the mother a lunatic, the father a

The Pratt family was well known and well thought of in Atlanta, where they have been living a number of years. Captain Pratt, an auctioneer by profession was a genial, whole-souled man, and in business and social relations was trusted and popular. Mrs. Pratt, the unfortunate wife and mother, was a woman of fine appearance and attainments. She was the daughter of Mrs. Butts, of Milledgeville, and was admired by a large circle of friends. Her two daughters, Miss Jessie and Mrs. J. G. Latham, of Rich land, Ga., are both handsome women, and antil affliction overtook the mother the family was a happy one.

The husband's grief for his poor stricken wife drove him to desperation, and it may be nerved him to drink the suicidal draught. Last Christmas the shadow began falling upon the family. At that time the mother's mind began to fail, the result of a protracted spell of sickness. Steadily she grew worse spel of sickness. Steadily she grew worse, until last week, when it was determined that the mother should be placed in the asylum, where, if possible, she might be restored to reason, under the care of the skilled physicians

Last Saturday Captain Pratt and his wife took the train for Milledgeville, the lady believing that she was going to see her mother, who lives there. But on reaching that city the lady was conducted to the asylum. It was a crushing blow to the devoted husband, and when he parted with his wife, going to the home of his motherin-law to pass the night, he was in a very despondent frame of mind.

All night he was in despair, frequently giving way to bitter weeping. Sunday morning he was found in an unconscious condition by a ervant, and before medical aid could avail.

was dead. Morphine and whisky were found upon table in his valise. A large dose of the poisonous drug had wooed him to the sleep that knows no waking. It is believed that Captain Pratt's death was accidental and not suicide. He had told Mr. Butts that he would have to take something to put him to sleep, and it is possible that in his excited, condition he took an overdose of morphine.

Beyond grief at his wife's terrible affliction, no cause is known that could have induced Captain Pratt to take his own life.

Captain Pratt to take in sown life.

Captain Pratt was connected with the El Dorado auction house on Decatur street. He was not in the employ of Winn & Spencer as has been stated. At one time he was a member of the firm of Pratt & Kemble, who ran an auction the city.

For the past ten or fifteen years he has handled the hammer at many public auction handled the hammer at many public auction sales of merchandise and real estate, and by reason of this had gained a wide reputation

He had a witty and attractive way of his own in crying his bids, and he will be missed in the profession. Captain Pratt's body was buried in Milledgeville.

INMAN PARK

Residence Lots For Sale at Auction.

On April 15th, at 3 p. m., the East Atlanta Land Company will sell at public outcry a large number of the most attractive residence lots in Inman Park. This property was withdrawn from the market after the one sale of a year ago, and until the plans of improving the park could be completed. During the past year these plans have been perfected. The city has graded all of the remaining streets and the lots have been graded by the East Atlanta Land Company to correspond. Sanitary sewers have been laid throughout the park; about 9,000 feet of water pipes have been laid, extending along Edgewood avenue, Elizabeth street, Waverly Way, Euclid avenue, Spruce and Waddell streets; and these pipes will be extended along the remaining streets at an early date. Gas pipes have also been laid through all of the above named streets and the Gas Company will extend these as the water pipes are extended. This property might all have been sold during the past year, but the East Atlanta Land Company's policy has been to withhold it until pany's poncy has been to the present complete development of its plans for an ideal residence park for Atlanta.

The property is now to be sold without reserve, and all parties who wish lots are requested to examine the property and attend the sale. We believe no such opportunity will be presented again, and doubless rare bargains will be obtained.

Terms one-fourth cash, balance in one, two and three years at 8 per cent interest.

MOVE. BASE

That was a "base move" the elements made. Spring began with rain, wind and then snow. Such a combination, of course, blights business, for a season, in light, warm-weather Clothes. It does in some stores—but not here. Trade was never in neater trim -and we are glad.

After all, when you've looked around and compared, don't you find that right here is where the Clothing business of the town is being done—because it is to the interest of buyers to do it here?

Why shouldn't it be? We manufacture for our various retail stores exclusively. That means the smallest possible prices.

Take this $15.00 Sack Suit, "a world beater;" customers say it, clothiers admit it, we know it.

Here are others for $12.00, and such qualities!

Styles until you are lost wondering.

The whole business is run on a generous plan; handled liberally; skimped nowhere; begun and will end on a big, broad basis. If you require anything in Men's Attire here is the stock that you can least afford to skip—if money sav-
